Exemptions Must Go, Congress Told

By GEORGE DURNO

International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, April 25 (INS)—President Roosevelt today called upon Congress to put an end to tax exemptions, both of state and federal securities and of state and federal salaries.

The Chief Executive said he made the request as "a matter, not of politics but of principle."

In a special message sent to both Houses, the President asserted that the language of the 16th Amendment to the Constitution plainly calls for collection of taxes "on incomes, from whatever source derived."

UP TO COURTS

Because the courts, through a series of judicial decisions, have read into the 16th Amendment a policy of reciprocal tax immunity, the President voiced the opinion that those same courts could correct the situation by future decisions.

For this reason, Mr. Roosevelt expressed the belief that it would not be necessary to undertake a constitutional amendment—which he referred to as a "cumbersome and uncertain remedy."

The Chief Executive said the continuing practice of issuing tax exempt securities "has created a vast reservoir in the hands of the very persons who equitably should not be relieved of taxes on their income."

"This reservoir now constitutes a serious menace to the fiscal systems of both the states and the nation because for years both the federal government and the states have come to rely increasingly upon graduated income taxes for their revenues," the Presidential message declared.

SERIOUS DEFECT

Turning to the problem of exemptions on state and federal salaries, the President asserted:

"Tax exemptions claimed by such (state and federal) officers and employees—once an inequity of relatively slight importance—has become a most serious defect

DeValera, Briton Sign Trade Pact

LONDON, April 25 (AP)—Neville Chamberlain and Eamon de Valera, prime ministers of Great Britain and Ireland, today signed an agreement intended to end old enmities between the two countries and solve their trade and defense disputes.

The agreement, which fails to touch on the larger issue of the partition of Ireland, was signed formally in the cabinet room at No. 10 Downing street.

It is believed the two countries have agreed to abolish all retaliatory duties, product of their long economic conflict, and reduce tariffs.

Britain is expected to waive the land annuities, amounting to $3,000,000 pounds ($25,000,000) a year, and other payments on condition that

Lodge Leads Battle To Cure Depression

WASHINGTON, April 25—Sweeping changes in relief distribution, the present system of taxation and the New Deal's tariff policy as steps toward ending the depression are demanded by Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., Massachusetts, in a minority report of the Senate Unemployment Committee.

Senator Lodge's Republican colleague, Senator James J. Davis of Pennsylvania, joined him as the minority in calling upon Congress to "stop wasting time" and act instead to help solve unemployment.

The Massachusetts senator charges the WPA with "waste, extravagance and discrimination," and the administration itself with frightening the business man by "extravagant utterances in which whole classes of people are insulted and individuals are lambasted over the radio."

WASTE OF TIME

Such business as legislation concerning the Supreme Court and

Sen. Lodge, Jr., rep. of the undistributed profits tax and modification of the capital gains tax, the minority report sharply criticizes the majority for its failure to "make any recommendations of a permanent nature."

"Give business stable conditions," the Lodge-Davis report asserts, "and jobs will be created ever night."

STORMY LANGUAGE

The minority report was couched in harsh language, and its tone startled the capital when it was released.

"After nine years," it said, "the haunting specter of joblessness is still with us—to a greater degree than ever."

"Let us act quickly, decisively, resourcefully, constructively. Dare we delay any longer?"

If there are helpful steps which government can take, it added, it should take them now.

2 Held in Stench Bombing of Nazis

NEW YORK, April 25 (INS)—Two boys were held today charged with throwing stench bombs into a gathering at Nazis in Westchester County's Community Center.

The stench bombs nearly broke up the meeting of 2000 Nazi sympathizers who otherwise conducted an orderly session singing German songs such as "Horst Wessel" and listening to pro-Hitler speeches. More than 150 police were on hand to preserve order.

Lodge-Davis Demands

This is a summary of demands in the Lodge-Davis minority report of the Senate Unemployment Committee:

Elimination of tax-exempt securities and reduction of the Social Security tax.

Repeal of undistributed profits tax and modification of capital gains tax as proposed in the Senate tax bill.

Reorganization of relief and unemployment agencies with a greater measure of local control.

Immediate action by Congress toward relief of the pressing problems of unemployment.

Fair treatment of the business man as the best hope for new jobs.

Nazis Expect Czechs To Grant Demands

By PIERRE J. HUSS

International News Service Staff Correspondent

BERLIN, April 25—Nazi Germany, fully endorsing the autonomy demands of the Sudeten Germans, expects Czechoslovakia to comply in every respect before the year is out, this correspondent was informed in authoritative quarters today.

The Czech government, headed by President Benes, will be given a reasonable time to accept the demands, it was said. But the possibility was not ruled out that Nazi patience may have a limit.

REICH BACKS DEMANDS

The Reich unqualifiedly endorses the eight autonomy demands put forward by Konrad Henlein, leader of the Czech Nazis, at the Sudeten party congress in Carlsbad. President Benes is expected to enter immediate negotiations despite the government's initial declaration it considers the demands "unacceptable."

Before the summer months are over, according to German expectations, Benes will give the Sudetens a clear answer to the following:

1.—To what extent is the Czechoslovakian government ready to meet the Sudeten demands?

2.—By what methods are the ambitions of the 3,500,000 Germans in Czechoslovakia to be realized?

NEXT MOVE FOR BENES

Thus the Nazi government takes the attitude that the next move is up to Benes, and the onus of reaching a satisfactory settlement placed upon his shoulders.

Reichsfuehrer Hitler is watching developments closely. In a conference with Foreign Minister von Ribbentrop on Saturday, the entire Central European problem was discussed in detail.

Demand Czechs Return Area to Hungary

BUDAPEST, Hungary, April 25 (AP)—The return of Upper Hungary, now a part of Czechoslovakia, was demanded at a Sunday mass meeting of the Hungarian Revision League.

Twenty thousand persons attended the meeting, the first legally held by the group since 1933. Thousands unable to gain admittance to the hall listened through loudspeakers.

Schuschnigg Disappears

(Copyright, 1938)

PARIS, April 25 (INS)—Kurt Schuschnigg, last chancellor of independent Austria, has disappeared. Such was the information given by unimpeachable Austrian emigre sources here today.

Apparently Schuschnigg is no longer at Belvedere Palace where he was held in "protective custody" since Reichsfuehrer Hitler took "that ancient nation into 'Greater Germany'" last month.

Announcement

The Boston Evening American, beginning today, appears in a more convenient and modern format, at TWO CENTS A COPY.

The features and departments which, through the years have attracted the largest evening paper reader audience in New England, will be maintained.

The news—ALL the NEWS—will be presented with completeness, accuracy and vividness.

The news in pictures will be an accentuated and improved feature of the American.

N.E. Air Invasion Tests Defenses

The most spectacular mimic warfare in all American history will be staged next month when the army air corps defends New England against an "enemy" fleet invasion, the War Department announced in Washington today.

The maneuvers will be staged under simulated war conditions, America being at war against a coalition of Asiatic and European powers, with Canada and Mexico neutral.

The American fleet will be in the Pacific, engaged in defensive operations against combined enemy fleets.

Only a handful of patrol boats guard the eastern coastline, when the army learns an enemy fleet is crossing the Atlantic with great troop transports for an attack on New England.

From Westfield airport, New York, and a dozen more army air bases in the east, the Air Corps will then go into action, using its giant bombers, and its fast pursuit and attack planes in a desperate effort to repel the invasion.

At Westfield airport, bombing squadron headquarters will be located, with 20 officers and 118 enlisted men. Much activity was there on the field yesterday and the army prepared for the reception of big planes next month.

Boston air port and large air fields at the Cape Cod National Guard camp will also be used in the maneuvers that will be a test of practical war conditions that have worried high Army and Navy officials for years.

Uncle Sam will learn from these maneuvers whether America has a chance of repelling a foreign foe, crossing the Atlantic, while its great battle fleets are bottled up in the Pacific. There has never been such a spectacular test of America's war power.

Record Smashed

A prelude of the army air games off New England was seen in the dramatic, record-smashing cross-country flight of Lt. Col. Robert Olds in one of the army's giant new bombers, Olds crossed the nation, West to East, in 10 hours and 45 minutes, averaging 212 miles an hour.

Army authorities said the crew of Olds' plane could have bombed any city on the way across the nation without being seen from the ground. They maintained Olds and his crew knew their exact position at all times by astronomical calculation.

Clergy Seized In Stalin Purge

MOSCOW, April 25 (INS)—Dictator Stalin's secret police, swinging their treason spotlight on the church, today announced a sweeping purge of Russia's ecclesiastics and revealed the arrests of many dignitaries including the Archbishop of Moscow.

The churchmen were charged with membership in an undercover, anti-Soviet, terrorist organization engaged in espionage on behalf of Fascist powers. According to the Soviet announcement, the arrested priests, nuns and monks plotted sabotage and overthrow of the Stalin regime.

It was clear from the wide publicity given the drive against the religious orders that many of the country's remaining churches may be forced to close, including the few left in Moscow.

Besides the archbishop of Moscow, other arrests included Archbishop Bayanov and several ranking church officials who went unnamed.

Unofficial estimates of the number of arrests among "enemies in priests' robes" varied between 150 and 200 during the past three weeks with approximately 25 taken into custody in the past 72 hours.

Meanwhile, arrests and executions of former Soviet officials as a continuation of Stalin's treason purge continued.

Another Saved As Girl Flags Cars With Skirt

A 62-year-old Cambridge man plunged to his death in the Cambridge subway today and a Roxbury heroine saved a South End man from a similar fate in Dorchester by waving her skirt and bringing a train to a stop.

Before the eyes of scores of screaming passengers, waiting for a Boston-bound train on the opposite platform, Samuel Brown, 62, of Dana street, Cambridge, was crushed to death by a rapid-transit train in Central Square station.

His widow, Mrs. Emma Brown, according to police, later said that her husband, a storekeeper, had complained of dizzy spells recently. A short time later Frederick Kelly, 48, of East Springfield street, South End, was injured when he slipped from the platform into the pit at the Columbia station.

A witness, Helen Keenan, of Orchard street, Roxbury, ran to the end of the station and "flagged" the train.

Kelly was taken in a police ambulance to City Hospital, where he was found suffering from concussion of the brain and a lacerated scalp.

Man Falls 3 Stories At Roxbury Home

While members of the family were attending final funeral services for his mother, Edward J. Devin, 39, of Winthrop street, Roxbury, today fell three stories from a piazza at his home.

Devin, father of eight, had attended a funeral mass in St. William's Church for his mother, Mrs. Margaret Devin of Sumner street, Roxbury, but had not accompanied the family to Calvary cemetery.

Rushed to City Hospital, he was treated for a brain concussion and lacerated neck. The victim is now on sick leave.

His $1250 Gone, Faith Healer, Too

WORCESTER, April 25—Police here today sought "Madame Melba," 235-pound crystal gazer and faith healer—and a man's $1250.

Noah B. Junier, 55, Charlton street, Southbridge, has been suffering some time from illness, he told police.

So, he said, he went to Madame Melba at her emporium on Main street, and she took his $1250 and gave him "a magic powder."

"Go home, throw the powder over your left shoulder onto the stove and your trouble will be gone," Noah said she told him. He did as instructed, he said, but it wasn't his troubles that disappeared—it was Madame Melba with his $1250.

GOING TO PARTY—Nancy Nye and Jean Cullen, two of Boston's charming debutantes, who will take part in style show to be given at Harvard May 8 by—ssh, it's a secret—Elsa Maxwell, internationally famous party giver. The affair is being sponsored by the Harvard Lampoon and some of the Lampoon boys will help show mildly how to wear her gowns—that's maybe. The boys are now rehearsing for the show—er—party.

Elsa Will Stage Party at Harvard

Elsa Maxwell is going to give a party—at Harvard!

Ssh. It's a big secret. Elsa hasn't told a soul (except a few of her most INTIMATE friends). But strangely enough, the news has been spreading all around town.

Confidentially, the Harvard Lampoon is behind it all, and Elsa is the plume in their cap. The internationally famous party giver has never before given a party for college students right on their home ground.

LAMPOON'S IDEA

Of course, it was the Lampoon's idea in the first place, and Elsa will be sort of mistress of the affair.

It will be held on May 8, probably in the Lampoon building. Elsa will

Elsa's Fame

Elsa Maxwell is society's favorite banisher of boredom and champion of the socialites in giving unique parties.

Parties, in fact, are the hobby of this plump and carefree balon-wielder of New York's Blue Book circus. She who originated the scavenger party, the well that yields beer and the fake cow that gives champagne.

No one yet has been able to stump her on her claim that she knows "everybody worth while," and she is given credit for having lifted Edgar Bergen and Charlie McCarthy out of obscurity and starting them on the road to fame.

arrive from New York with a few of her fine-feathered friends—including none other than Noel Coward.

There'll be a fashion show—a terrific one, no doubt—since the Lampoon boys themselves will do some of the modeling, along with a hand-picked group of Boston debutantes, among whom will be Nancy Nye and Jean Cullen, recently selected as Boston's most charming debutantes. There'll also be some real live models from the famous John Powers agency in New York.

SET FASHION HINTS

All the gowns will be supplied by Lord and Taylor of Fifth avenue. And Helena Rubenstein (in person) will be on hand to supervise the makeup.

The boys who'll take part in the show are even now undergoing grueling coaching on how to wear the latest in feminine fashion.

The evening of May 8 can't miss being one of THE social events of the season. And the Lampoon certainly has scooped its rival publication, the Harvard Crimson.

Simon Suspect Hints Law Action

LOS ANGELES, April 24 (AP)—Pacing her jail cell, Sandra Martin, 32, former secretary to the French actress, Simone Simon, denied today she confessed to the theft of $16,000 from the actress, and promised there would be "plenty of fireworks" before this thing is over.

She intimated that legal action may be taken.

Although district attorneys' investigators booked her on a charge of grand theft and said she admitted taking the money from Miss Simon, the secretary said she had made no such confession.

"There is a lot more to this than has come out so far," she told newsmen. "It will all be told at the proper time. Right now I'll have to wait until I confer with my attorney before I make any detailed statement. I have a conference scheduled with him today."

Hub Beauty Files New Love Suit

The former Edna Clasky Dunham, one-time Malden and Boston shoe model and necktie salesgirl who married Philip Morgan Plant, again named Marjorie King, Hollywood beauty, in new charges filed against Plant in Bridgeport, Ct., today.

Plant, Broadway playboy and former husband of Constance Bennett, is the possessor of a fortune estimated in excess of $17,000,000. Mrs. Plant previously was married to Ernest F. Dunham, New York broker.

OTHER RIVALS, TOO

Mrs. Plant's suit for divorce was filed a year ago, shortly after she and "Phil" returned from a British East African expedition. They had gone there to collect specimens of ostriches and war-hogs.

Phil's collecting proclivities at home, however, rather than abroad, were what caused the trouble, Mrs. Plant's suit alleges.

Most gorgeous of all Phil's "collector's items," according to Mrs. Plant's charges, has been Marjorie King. But, the original suit contended, there were also other expensive specimens. Phil, Mrs. Plant alleged, also had other "collectors" working for him, sending him new and beautiful items as he, from time to time required.

When Plant, in answer to her original divorce papers, demanded that she be more specific in her charges, Mrs. Plant complied.

SHE GIVES NAMES

There is, or was, a certain "Lacile Main" in New York, she stated, who "was accustomed to send women to the defendant at various places where he might be when he was not in New York, including Orwagatchie Farm, Waterford, Ct. the Mohican Hotel at New London, and his residences in Florida."

Also, Mrs. Plant averred, there is or was a certain "June H. Reed" of Park avenue, who supplied rare, or maybe not so rare, items to young Mr. Plant at his Park avenue apartment.

All of this, according to Mrs. Plant, was before beautiful Marjorie King came into Plant's life.

In her supplementary charges, filed in her amended complaint in Bridgeport today, Mrs. Plant brings her version of her husband's alleged friendship with Miss King up to date.

TELS OF ACTS

Her original bill for divorce was filed in May, 1937, Mrs. Plant says, but her husband's interest in Miss King, she charges, has gone right on. She accuses her multi-millionaire husband of "almost daily" misconduct. Places named include Beverly Hills, Cal., and a beach near St. Petersburg, Fla.

Final straw, the bill alleges, was Plant's taking Miss King to his mother's home in Fifth avenue, New York, where Mrs. Plant's complaint charges, they likewise were guilty of misconduct.

Critic of Cardinal Rouses Dorgan Ire

A speech by U. S. Rep. Jerry J. O'Connell, Montana, at Ford Hall Forum, was enlivened by a verbal clash on religion between him and former State Rep. Thomas Dorgan of Dorchester.

The verbal exchange followed a remark by O'Connell during a part of his speech, "I Hate War," in which he took exception to doubts expressed by Cardinal O'Connell that Gen. Franco's armies had deliberately bombed civilians.

Dorgan, father of the "Teacher's Oath Law" in Massachusetts, rose from the audience and asked O'Connell why the "Democratic" government in Spain permitted Communists to slaughter priests and nuns and destroy Catholic churches.

In reply O'Connell declared such practices might have been used during the early part of the war but have since been stopped.

"I don't think much of your Catholicism, Cong. O'Connell," shouted Dorgan.

Roosevelt Demands All Pay Taxes

in the fiscal systems of the states and the nation, for they rely increasingly upon graduated taxes for their revenue."

It was recalled to Congress that for more than 20 years secretaries of the treasury have reported to Congress on the growing evils of such exceptions.

"Therefore, I lay before the Congress the statement that a fair and effective progressive income tax and abate perpetual reserve of tax-exempt bonds cannot exist side by side," Mr. Roosevelt said.

The desirability of this recommendation has been apparent for some time, but heretofore it has been assumed that the Congress was obliged to wait upon that cumbersome and uncertain remedy—a constitutional amendment—before taking action.

"Today, however, expressions in recent judicial opinions lead us to hope that the assumption underlying these doctrines are being questioned by the court itself, and that these tax immunities are not inescapable requirements under the constitution itself but are the result of judicial decision.

CORRECTION SEEN

"Therefore, it is not unreasonable to hope that judicial decision may find it possible to correct it. The doctrine was originally evolved out of a totally different set of economic circumstances from which now exist. It is a familiar principle of law that decisions lose their binding force when the reasons supporting them no longer are pertinent."

The President said the same principles of just taxation applied to exceptions on official salaries. He pointed out that the federal government is losing income through exemption of hundreds of thousands of state, county and municipal employees from taxation. Similarly, the states are restricted from levying taxes on the salaries of hundreds of thousands of federal employees.

"Justice in a great democracy should treat those who earn their livelihood from government in the same way it treats those who earn their livelihood in private employ," the President asserted.

Ireland spend a substantial amount on defense.

Under the defense agreement, it was predicted Britain would relinquish the right to three naval bases—Spike island in Cork harbor, Bere island off County Cork and Swilly at Donegal. These would be fortified and equipped by Ireland.

In return for concessions on agricultural products, Ireland is expected to buy heavy machinery and defense supplies from Britain.

UNION BIG GOAL

Anglo-Irish negotiations started January 17 with De Valera eager for an accord which would include a union of Ireland with Northern Ireland (Ulster) as envisaged by the new constitution he promulgated May 1, 1937.

The constitution, having been approved in a plebiscite by the former Free State electorate, went into effect December 29, 1937, declaring all Ireland an independent state.

On Feb. 10 the Northern Ireland government of Viscount Craigavon was returned to power in an election which essentially was a vote against union of the two Irelands. There are several barriers between six-county Ulster and her larger neighbor—racial, religious and economic.

Union Asks Ford For $1500 Pay On Yearly Basis

Read what Henry Ford thinks of opportunity in America. Page 26 today.

DETROIT, April 25 (AP)—The first known attempt of workers in the automobile industry to obtain a guarantee of an annual minimum wage was revealed today by the Ford Brotherhood of America, an independent labor organization.

The Brotherhood's goal is at least $1500 a year for every hourly-rate worker in the mammoth Rouge plant of the Ford Motor Company in suburban Dearborn, where it claims a membership of 21,400. During peak production, the factory has nearly 90,000 employees.

NEGOTIATION REVEALED

The F. B. A. disclosed that it has been negotiating with the company the past month.

As far as could be learned, this was the first time that organized workers in the industry have sought contractual assurance of an annual minimum wage. It is known, however, that at least one other group has had this in mind as one of its ultimate objectives.

President Roosevelt and Gov. Frank Murphy of Michigan have advocated such a plan.

Henry Ford has an engagement—announced last week—to lunch with President Roosevelt at the White House Wednesday.

AGREEMENT ON NEW CARS

William S. McDowell, Sr., Brotherhood attorney, said that in return for the proposed wage guarantee F. B. A. members would sign an agreement that each would purchase a new car from the company every two years at the same price at which they are sold to dealers.

Under the plan, they would buy their cars within six months from the signing of the contract.

While this move intended to stabilize the Ford labor situation materialized, on another front there were indications that strikes which have been voted by U. A. W. A. members in three Michigan plants of General Motors may not be called.

Dolan Contempt Trial This Week

Trial of the contempt proceedings growing out of the so-called Dolan case will be called this week, it was announced today by Assistant District Attorney Frederick T. Doyle.

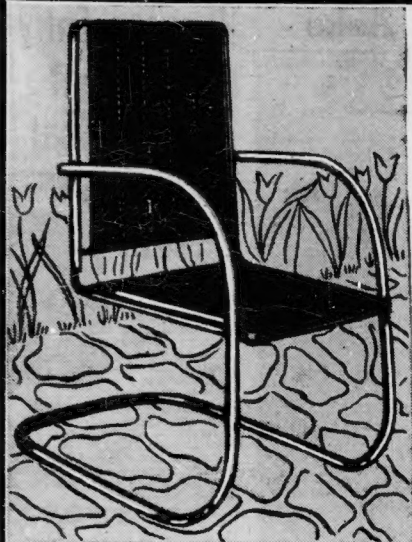

Former Representative Robert Dinmore of East Boston, named in one of the contempt petitions, was held in $1000 after he pleaded not guilty.

With Dinmore, former ICY Treasurer Edmund L. Dolan and J. Walter Quinn, with three others, are named in the contempt petitions. Dolan and Quinn are defendants in the conspiracy charge, with Harold Simpson.

Earlier Doyle summoned two new "mystery" witnesses, one a man from New Hampshire, whom he said had been "contacted" by someone in Boston.

Pastor Hunts Wife on Cape

ORLEANS, April 25—Mysteriously vanishing during the night, Mrs. Alfred Snively, wife of the pastor of Trinity Episcopal Church, Whitinsville, was sought here today by local police, state police and members of the American Legion. Reverend Mr. Snively told police he last saw his wife when, clad only in her nightclothing, she went downstairs to fix the fire in the little cottage here in which they were staying.

East Boston Wins Fight For Ferry

East Boston citizens today won their long fight against curtailment of city ferry service, it was announced by City Councillor Francis W. Irwin after a conference with Mayor Tobin attended by 15 leading East Boston citizens. Auction sale of the ferry, Daniel McCormick, scheduled for Wednesday at an upset price of $60,000 was held up. The ferry, Lawrence Fishery, will be sold as scheduled that day at an upset price of $40,000.

Among those at the conference were Daniel O'Connell, president of the East Boston Board of Trade; Daniel Donovan, international vice-president of the Longshoremen's Union, and Attorney Alexander Whiteside.

'Why Fire Me?' Teacher Asks

Carver Blonde Aided In Fight by Hundreds

CARVER, April 25—"If the school board will tell me why I'm being dropped I'll be satisfied."

That was the statement today of Miss Florence Kaski, blond primary grade teacher here, whom the Carver school committee proposes to dismiss. Charges of unfairness, duplicity and "hidden purposes" have been made against the committee by townspeople and by Miss Kaski's family.

HIDDEN MOTIVE HINT

"We've been paying taxes in this town for a good many years," her mother said today in the kitchen of her lonely farm in Pine street, South Carver. "There's no reason why Florence should be dropped. There's something behind this."

Florence has been teaching in Carver for three years, and needs only another term to obtain a "tenure of office" job for the rest of her life.

"When I applied for appointment, the board told me I couldn't get it," Miss Kaski continued. "They said they were opposed to giving 'tenure jobs' to townsfolk. That seems funny. They have other reasons."

PROMISE TO TELL

"I asked them why, and they wouldn't tell. Then we had that town meeting, and I told them if they had anything against me they should come out with it. But they didn't."

Refusal of school committee Chairman Russell E. Shaw to let his reasons lead to the signing of two petitions by hundreds of townspeople, including children, demanding the reasons, and to two town meetings to discuss the matter.

In the face of strong and continued pressure, against them, the school committee have announced they will make public the reasons later this week.

France Asks League Aid for Austrians

GENEVA, April 25—France today sought League of Nations help for Austrian refugees, asking that the question be put on the schedule for the council meeting starting May 9. The Swiss government sent a memorandum on reasons for its request for freedom from obligations to join in punitive measures against aggressor nations.

CHALLENGES SCHOOL BOARD—"If only they will tell me why I'm being dropped, I'll be satisfied," declares Florence Kaski, North Carver school teacher, pictured above at the school today with a pupil.

Hurley Bans Debate on El

Governor Hurley will not accept the invitation of Lieutenant-Governor Francis E. Kelly to discuss on the radio the question of responsibility for Boston Elevated Railway deficits.

Kelly, in line with a policy he established a year ago for discussion of public questions, engaged time at 7:15 tonight on station WAAB and invited the governor to join him. Paul C. Ryan, secretary, said the governor would not be there.

The lieutenant-governor said today he will "bring to light" much discussion on the El situation aired behind closed doors at a recent session of the governor's council.

Eats Bolts To Rob Chair

OSSENING, N. Y., April 25 (AP)—By eating pieces of bedspring and nuts and bolts, John Rylowicz, 39-year-old house painter nearly healed the Sing Sing electric chair.

Rylowicz is awaiting execution for slaying Mrs. Lenida Waite, 59, and a visitor, Jean Schuella, 19, on Long Island. He came ill and was taken to the hospital. "I found pieces of bed spring and a large quantity of wire in his stomach, as well as a couple of handfuls of nuts and bolts," said Dr. Charles Sweet. He said Rylowicz probably would recover.

Brennan Entry Livens Fight For Kelly Seat

Entrance of former Governor's Councillor James H. Brennan into the Democratic contest for lieutenant-governor today promised a keen fight at the September primary.

The field already includes John H. Walsh of Waltham, former state commander of the American Legion; Alexander Sullivan of East Boston, former representative and others.

Brennan, whose home was in Charlestown until he recently moved to Jamaica Plain, has served in both branches of the Legislature and was a delegate to the Constitutional Convention.

Through his service in the governor's council, he has had a chance to familiarize himself with the duties of a lieutenant-governor.

In making his announcement, Brennan said he would dedicate his energies toward relief of unemployment and (taxes on real estate; reorganization of state institutions and parole; suppression of Communist educational institutions and abolition of the state prison at Charlestown.

Woman Overcome By Gas in Home

Victim of a train accident last September in which she lost a leg, Mrs. Helen Vignoli, 44, of Walden street, East Boston, mother of two children, was found unconscious today in the gas-filled kitchen of her home.

Police, summoned by a relative, said the gas fumes were escaping from a stove burner and that she may have fainted while at work. Last September she fainted and fell in the path of a train in Thompson square, Charlestown, station.

Harvard 'Replies' On Ousted Teacher

Harvard University, unofficially, today replied to those critics who last spring charged the university with discharging J. Raymond Walsh, economics instructor, because of his union activities.

The university announced that David W. Prall, associate professor of philosophy, had been promoted to a full professorship. Prall is president of the Cambridge Union of University Teachers, succeeding Walsh last October.

Crater's Wife in Maine Retreat

Loses N. Y. Home
For $800 Debt

BELGRADE LAKE, Me., April 25—The same cottage she occupied when her husband mysteriously disappeared eight years ago was made ready here today for the arrival of Mrs. Joseph F. Crater, wife of the missing jurist.

This beautiful Maine spot will be "home" to the woman who's had enough of worry and sleepless nights since May 6, 1930, when the New York Supreme Court justice walked out of their happy home and never returned.

PRICED AT $800

Stock in the New York cooperative apartment and the 100-year lease on the swank five room two-bath apartment on Fifth avenue, for which her husband paid $18,000 down payment and thousands more for upkeep, will be sold to the one bidding $800 or more.

That was the amount Mrs. Crater owed and for which she was dispossessed a few weeks ago.

"I just received notice that the sale will be held May 4," Mrs. Crater was quoted as saying in New York. "But it's hard to believe. My husband intended it for our permanent home."

"There is more than $30,000 in it and to think it may go for as little as $800. But that's what it says in black and white. Even the name of the auctioneer is on it, so it's true."

GETS RADIO JOB

Mrs. Crater added she hoped "bidding is spirited."

"In that case I would be entitled to the surplus," she said. "But there is not much chance of that. I just try not to think about it."

"I try to keep my mind on more pleasant things."

The most pleasant thing that came to Mrs. Crater in a long time was a radio job. She has had it two weeks.

MRS. JOSEPH F. CRATER

Nazi Fugitive
Boy Lauds U. S.

NEW YORK, April 25—Martin Marden, 16, a month ago, wrote a prayer of thanksgiving that clutched the nation's heart.

He wrote passionately his reasons for being thankful that he had escaped from Nazi Germany.

Today this red-headed messenger boy returned to New York from Washington and a speaking tour of eastern cities. Tonight he will be at the Brotherhood rally and on Friday the American Legion will award him a medal.

Twice he has broadcast from coast to coast the story of his experiences in the country he left three years ago and where, he says, "they do not know what freedom is."

"I'm glad that my prayer really affected people," the boy said today at the home of his family, 1804 University avenue, the Bronx. "Frankly, I like to travel around, too, but I was not thinking of gain or notoriety when I wrote that prayer, and I'm not thinking of such things now. I'll never grow tired of telling my story if it will help others."

Wife Saves Life
As Bull Gores Him

SOUTHBURY, Ct., April 25 (INS)—Prompt action by his wife, who drove the infuriated animal away with a pitchfork, had saved Alric E. Nelson from being gored to death by a bull on his farm.

Nelson, a grand juror, who prosecuted two members of the German-Americanbund last December on charges of working on Sunday, suffered severe chest bruises and possible internal injuries.

Two bills aimed at the price of gas in the Boston area were presented the legislative committee on power and light in the State House today.

One, sponsored by Mayor Tobin, asked that the Boston Consolidated Gas Company be prohibited from purchasing gas from outside concerns at a purchase price lower than the cost of making it. The other was to regulate the price on gas purchased from a Dedham company for use in Hyde Park.

Kane Bans Liquor To 'Relief' Families

Mayor William E. Kane of Woburn turned Carrie Nation without an axe today, heading a flying squad that made the rounds of local taverns and liquor stores.

"No more liquor sales to Woburn welfare recipients," the mayor personally warned tavern and store owners. "No more WPA or welfare drunks. No more sales to any person who has had enough."

At the same time, Mayor Kane announced that Woburn voters who rejected his "drunkards' cage" idea in their plebiscite yesterday will be asked to submit their ideas for a "drastic" substitute.

They will be asked, the mayor said, to make suggestions by mail, in a manner similar to that in which the plebiscite vote was taken yesterday.

The names of voters making such suggestions will be held "secret and confidential" if they desire, the mayor said.

Meanwhile, Mayor Kane prepared to slash his own salary 20 per cent, and the salaries of other municipal officials and school employees likewise. Woburn voters having enthusiastically endorsed that suggestion, 6 to 1.

Also, the mayor was laying plans for his big city bean party Wednesday night, the proceeds to be used for the fund to distribute 1000 free quarts of milk daily to Woburn welfare and WPA families.

Woburn welfare recipients, Mayor Kane emphasized, are going on a milk diet. "Liquor," he declared definitely is "out."

Woburn police today were given a list of all welfare recipients in town, with instructions to distribute copies to all liquor dispensers. State law prohibits liquor dealers from selling "knowingly" to anyone on welfare.

"I've no objection to a man going into a tavern or store for a glass or bottle of beer," Mayor Kane sought to explain. "It's not how he goes in; it's how he comes out."

As to his cage idea and its injection, Mayor Kane said:

"I thought they'd vote for it. Since they have not, I'll have to think up something else."

PLEBISCITE BY MAIL.

"Our plebiscite here in Woburn—and incidentally I believe it's the first of its kind ever held in America—definitely has given me a mandate to continue my drive against drunkenness. If not the cage, then some other drastic method is needed."

"I shall ask the people of Woburn to submit their suggestions to me, by letter. Their letters will be held in strict confidence, if they so desire."

In addition to the city and school salary cuts, the personnels of the police and fire departments are to be reduced. Also, Mayor Kane said.

"I'm going to clean out the chiselers, the fakers, scheming racketeers, broken down truck-borne and 'hot shot' houses, so that deserving workers and struggling taxpayers may get a break."

TILL REDUCE TAXES?

"I'm going to reduce Woburn's present all-time-high tax rate, and I'm going to enforce the law."

Mayor Kane revealed, with a chuckle, one of the "anti" suggestions received in the plebiscite.

"Why don't you just cut out the mayor and city council and school committee and make Kane king?" this one read.

AFL Prepares To Lop Off CIO

WASHINGTON, April 25 (INS)—The executive council of the American Federation of Labor prepared today to hack away the I at shrouded ties between itself and the Committee for Industrial Organization.

Informal sources expected the council, at its spring meeting opening today, to act a deadline before which 10 suspended affiliates in the CIO must return to the parent fold or be forever ousted.

Thirteen AFL unions comprised the rebel bloc, which first set up the CIO. For thus establishing "dual unionism," the United Mine Workers, the Flat Glass Workers, and the Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers have been expelled from the federation.

Charters of the other 10 have been retained by the A. F. of L., however, in hope they might some day return to the federation. They include the United Auto Workers, United Textile Workers, Amalgamated clothing workers and International Ladies' Garment Workers.

AFL headquarters said the executive council will also take steps to strengthen the independent political committees the federation is establishing to fight the CIO-Labor's Non-Partisan League.

Taxpayers Hit Pump Priming

A resolution opposing proposed expenditure of billions of dollars for pump-priming was sent to the Bay State members of Congress today by the directors of the Massachusetts Federation of Taxpayers' Association.

"Taxpayers generally are concerned," the resolution read, "that depressions will recur until demands upon them for the support of government are lightened."

A reduction in cost of government and continuance of the work relief program "to the minimum degree" were also urged.

10,000 in War On Vice, Infidelity

More than 10,000 young people members of the New England youth movement pledged themselves to war on vice at a convention in Mechanics Building.

The meeting was held under direction of a group of Presbyterian and Unitarian clergymen of Greater Boston. Infidelity and immorality, the speakers said, walk hand-in-hand in a dual effort to wreck the morale of the nation.

Council Plans New Slashes in Budget

With stormy sessions indicated during the next three weeks, the city council will begin hearings tomorrow on Mayor Tobin's $39,860,000 budget.

O'Connor Sees Victory for Wage-Hour Bill

WASHINGTON, April 25 (INS)—Back in the Capitol today invigorated by a brief rest, Representative O'Connor (D) of New York marshalled a powerful coalition for a showdown this week on wage-hour legislation.

O'Connor, chairman of the House Rules committee and leader of the fight which killed President Roosevelt's government reorganization bill, appeared confident he can drive the bitterly contested labor standards measure to enactment at this session.

Unlike the last battle which he led, when he defied the Democratic leadership and defeated the reorganization bill, the wage-hour war finds the fiery New York Irishman fighting shoulder-to-shoulder with President Roosevelt.

Fate of the bill, which would establish a maximum 40-hour work week and a minimum wage of 40 cents an hour in three years, rests with the hostile rule committee—men Democrats and four Republicans. Once before the committee pigeon-holed wage-hour legislation.

Representative Martin (R) of Massachusetts, member of the committee, is reported ready to throw his support behind the measure while Representative Taylor (R) of Tennessee will fight it. The other two Republicans on the committee, Representatives Mapes of Michigan and McLean of New Jersey, have not made their position known, but may cast the deciding votes.

The Democratic leadership looked for support from Republicans of New England and other industrial sectors. The CIO and AFL are exerting intense pressure on House members for enactment of the bill.

The bill, one of the most cherished of New Deal objectives, would provide a sliding scale of minimum wage and maximum hours, starting at 25 cents per hour and 44 hours a week and reaching the 40-40 level in three years.

Apremont Shrine Dedicated to 104th

SPRINGFIELD, April 25—A giant mountain boulder today marked Apremont Shrine, dedicated on the spot where the 104th Infantry trained for their service in France.

The shrine was dedicated by state officials and members of the 104th Infantry Regiment Veterans Association while a thousand looked on at Apremont Park. The site was donated by Mrs. Sadie B. Knox of Westfield.

Bronx Deer Thrills 'Em at 72

NEW YORK, April 25 (AP)—Churchgoers in the Bronx clutched their children firmly and stood as pale as a black-whiskered, wild-haired little man, bare of chest and knobby of knee, clad in green shorts and "sneakers," ran licker-split backwards and hopped fire hydrants.

Once again, Goliath Measiah was observing his birthday—his 72nd, he said—in his own unique fashion and, he said, "in the interest of humanity."

The self-styled Persian messiah ran backwards three miles and then, scarcely panting explained that the secret of his whipcord muscles and glowing vitality was based on a diet of tree bark, fruit, green vegetables and a pint of wine daily.

Who Wants This Peppy Pup?

Best Letter Wins Kin of 'Flush'

This is "Be Kind to Animals Week" and today a cute little pedigree cocker spaniel puppy is waiting out in Hingham to be claimed by some lucky boy or girl reader of the Boston Evening American.

Yesir or yes miss you can win this dog merely by writing the best letter on the subject: "Why We Should Be Kind to Animals."

Any boy or girl in New England who is UNDER 15 YEARS OLD is eligible to contest for this pup, a descendant of the famous "Flush" whom you may have seen in the movie "The Barretts of Wimpole Street" with Norma Shearer and Charles Laughton.

Here are the simple rules: Write it to "Be Kind to Animals Editor, Boston Evening American, 5 Winthrop square, Boston."

Note plainly on your letter your name, age, address, school, school

WOOF AND HELLO — This eight-week-old cocker spaniel is calling up to offer himself to the Evening American as an award to some lucky youngster. He'll be given away, as you'll read elsewhere in this edition.

grade and the name of your teacher. Mail your letter so it will carry a postmark not later than midnight next Saturday, which is the deadline.

To the writer of the best letter will be awarded a cute little, eight-week-old Kressingham's "Robinhood," the black and white spaniel that will prove a real pet for the fortunate youngster.

This merry pup has "Robin" for a nickname and is being raised at the fine Kressingham Kennels in South Hingham, owned by Mrs. Herman Kress. She specializes in the cocker spaniel breed.

Robin's ma was "Capeway Katrina" and his dad "Kressingham's Taffy." His grandfather was the famous champion "Idahurst Roderic," winner of many medals as one of the best cocker spaniels in the country, and "Flush" of the movies was his grand-uncle.

The puppy weighs nine pounds, is smart, full of life, likes to play, will love the water in common with his breed and can easily be trained as a field dog. He'll be a real pet.

So sit down and compose that letter right away. You may win "Kressingham's Robinhood" for your own.

Solons Study Degrees Bill

To consider the cost of awarding art degrees at the nine state colleges, the proposal of Commissioner of Education James G. Reardon was sent back to the House ways and means committee today.

Reardon's proposal, which would allow award of B. A., B. E. and M. A. degrees, is believed to be a forerunner for a move to establish a state university in Massachusetts.

Zog Kingdom Athrill Over Royal Bridal

TIRANA, Albania, April 25 (INS)—King Zog's tiny Balkan capital was crowded to capacity and teeming with riotous color today as Albania prepared for the monarch's marriage to Countess Geraldine Apponyi, daughter of a Hungarian father and an American mother.

The next three days will witness the biggest celebration in Albanian history to be crowned with the wedding itself scheduled for performance with combined Moslem Catholic ceremonies at high noon on Wednesday.

Both hotels in Tirana, most

primitive of Europe's capitals, were jammed and every available room in all private homes was rented at fantastic prices.

Two steamers loaded with guests arrived today. Tirana's festive air was completed by a refurbishing and repainting job done on all homes. Policemen were dressed in new uniforms.

The king's ball tonight will honor many special guests including diplomats and royalty.

Zog, who is Europe's last remaining bachelor king, will receive native and foreign delegations tomorrow.

Following the marriage Wednesday there will be a royal reception.

Soon after their wedding, the king and his queen will leave for Zog's summer castle at Duizoz, Albania, accompanied by the Austrian Baroness Ruediger, lady-in-waiting to the queen.

'Sex Appeal'

Bows to Sociability

MADISON, Wis., April 25 (INS)—sociability and not "sex appeal" attracts men (women, Prof. J. E. Janney of Western College, Oxford, O., asserted here.

Revealing the results of a survey of 350 co-eds before the annual meeting of the mid-Western Psychological Association, Prof. Janney reported that he also had discovered that the most popular girls, those with plenty of "dates", are as well liked by women as they are by men.

Boy Matricide Waits Sentence

CHICAGO, April 25 (AP)—Theodore Danielson, Jr., 18, charged with the slaying of his crippled mother, awaited today the verdict of a criminal court judge.

The youth, accused of a strangling and stabbing his mother with a bread knife last March 3 during a quarrel over his truancy from high school, told the court Saturday at the conclusion of a four day trial:

"Whatever you do with me will be all right. I want you to know that I loved my mother. If I was in my right mind at that time, I never would have done it."

Dorchester Woman Drowning Victim

Miss Edythe Cunningham, 40, of Draper Street, Dorchester, a former inmate of Medford State Hospital, was found floating in Dorchester Bay at the foot of Victory road, Dorchester.

Miss Cunningham had been reported missing since February 28.

Dust at Sea

WASHINGTON, April 25 (AP)—Ever hear of a dust storm at sea? Well, the Federal Hydrographic office did.

The steamer Teleforta De Larinaga has just reported she ran into one of the west coast of Africa. It lasted for six days.

III Baby Rushed Here Over Road, Temperature 107

Clasped in his mother's arms, a 19-months-old baby boy was raced 67 miles over the road today from Winchendon to Massachusetts General Hospital in a desperate attempt to save his life.

It had been thought that there was some obstruction in the baby's intestines. On arrival at the hospital the case was diagnosed as pneumonia.

Temperature 107
Dawn was but half an hour away when little John Oakes, Jr., son of a 22-year-old WPA timekeeper of Winchendon, was carried into the hospital by his big-eyed young mother, Mrs. Doris Oakes, who had been without sleep for nearly two days.

Doctors said the child was critically ill and that it had a temperature of 107 degrees.

Early today, with his condition becoming worse, it was decided that it would be necessary to get him quickly to a Boston hospital.

FAST TRIP TO BOSTON
The frantic father telephoned Massachusetts General Hospital, and when doctors there learned it was an emergency case they instructed the father to come right along with the child.

Accompanied by a nurse and Oakes' brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Allen MacArthur, the parents started over the road with the baby, making the 67-mile run in one hour and 25 minutes.

No. End Police Seize 9 On Bet Charges

Smashing their way into a Prince street, North End, building, police of the North End station early today arrested nine men on gambling charges.

The raid was led by Lieutenant Louis A. DiSessa, with Sergeant John Tesoro and Patrolmen Daniel Cogrove and James McGann.

Butler Issues Blast at Party 'Higherups'

By ALFRED D. WHELTON

Reports of a John W. Hays Leverett Salonstall slate as Republican nominees for governor and lieutenant governor policy brought a "blast" against "party higherups" from Frederick Butler, chairman of the 1933 Republican convention at which they were chosen.

Butler, now chairman of the Essex County committee, has announced his own candidacy for governor.

In comment on the Hays-Salonstall slate for the campaign this fall Butler said he didn't think the majority of Republicans would allow the same slate that lost in 1926 to attempt to earn too governor's chair.

"I am running no matter who runs," he said.

"I am convinced that 15 men might have got together in a hotel room and decided who was going to run but, apparently, the powers-that-be have been able to gain the nomination of various candidates but have not been able to win an election since 1928."

He pointed out that even in that year they succeeded in winning the state for Frank G. Allen, but lost to Hays.

"I believe," he continued, "the Republicans have an excellent opportunity this year and I don't think the majority of Republicans will allow them to lose it."

The Hays-Salonstall slate was reported to have been decided last Thursday night by a group in the party known as "The Committee of 15."

Four-Power Pact Step to War---Shaw

By WILLIAM HILLMAN

Copyright, 1938, by International News Service

LONDON, April 25—Many statesmen may believe that the four-power Western European pact, goal of British Prime Minister Chamberlain and Premier Mussolini would prove the open sesame to a generation of peace.

But not so George Bernard Shaw. The white-haired, octogenarian sage on the contrary sees such an arrangement as simply a factor that may lead to further warfare.

In an exclusive interview, this With his characteristic positiveness "Do you believe there is any possibility of bringing about a four power agreement among Britain, France, Italy and Germany as the basis of at least a few years of peace in Europe?" The dean of British letters replied:

"There is a possibility of a four-power combination against Russia following up their combination against Spain. The Spanish affair is a class war undisguised."

"There would be no gain for peace in a series of civil wars that such a step (four-power pact) might provoke."

Shaw laughed at the jitters European statesmen suffer every time Adolf Hitler makes some move. With his characteristic positiveness he scoffed at the professions of peace made by diplomats who seek a four-power pact. He voiced sharp skepticism with regard to the surface gestures constantly made in the European diplomatic game.

I asked him: "Do you believe that Europe will now begin to return to a more pacific state of mind as a result of the first success of Chamberlain's policy, the achievement of the Italian pact, and Hitler's achievement of the union of Austria and Germany?"

Shaw answered: "Europe will no doubt recover from the ridiculous fright into which all of Herr Hitler's movements throw her, in spite of the fact that so far not one of them has involved the slightest real risk of war."

Legion of Mary Vows Renewed

More than 1000 members of the Legion of Mary today had renewed their solemn vows in an inspiring religious service at the Cathedral of the Holy Cross attended by a number of priests.

Each member bowed at the shrine and solemnly repeated the vow "I am thine, my Queen, my Mother, and all that I have is thine." Cardinal O'Connell sent the members his paternal goodwill through the Rev. Henry M. O'Connell.

Japs Replace China Leader

SHANGHAI, April 25 (AP)—Reports of a change in the Japanese command in North China as a result of the disastrous Taiateh-wang defeat coincided today with fresh Japanese advances in the drive to wipe out the stain of that reverse.

A Shanghai evening paper said General Terauchi, commanding in North China, had been recalled to Japan and been succeeded by General Ushiroiwa.

Japan's strongly reinforced armies drove southward close to the vital east-west Lunghai railway.

The Japanese offensive extended along a 50-mile front east and west of Pihaiien. Fifteen troop trains were rolling southward from Tientsin with fresh troops for the drive.

Chinese, fighting desperately to check the Japanese offensive along the South Shantung border, declared Japan soon would have 200,000 soldiers engaged in their drive to capture Suchow.

A Japanese naval spokesman denied Hongkong reports that two Chinese passenger vessels had been bombed and sunk by Japanese planes, with loss of 100 Chinese lives.

True Drink Names Ordered by U. S.

WASHINGTON, April 25 (INS).—Makers, distributors and dispensers of the nation's alcoholic refreshments have been summoned to Washington this week to be told by the Federal Alcohol Administration the consumer is entitled to assurance he is getting what he pays for.

At a series of hearings the administration will lay out amendments to rules and regulations specifying changes in labeling and advertising of ale, porter, stout, wines, brandy and other liquors.

While the meetings are called as "hearings" to "consider" the changes, the administration has the say over regulations. Inasmuch as the amendments are proposed by the administration, it's almost a foregone conclusion that they will be adopted.

The administration is proposing amendments to define ale, porter stout and other malt beverages by vitamin content "and similar properties," in addition to alcoholic content, with regulations to require "truthful and adequate statement" of its composition in labeling and advertising.

One amendment, for instance, would require that imported Pilsen beer not brewed at Pilsen, Czechoslovakia, "shall clearly indicate that such product was not brewed at Pilsen."

Brandy, too, would bear labels showing whether it is made from raisins, pomace, apricots—and it could bear only such labels if it is 160 proof or less, under another amendment. Anything over 160 proof is required, under proposed amendments, to bear the additional notation of "industrial" or "fortifying."

Baby Death Race Victor Smiles as Pin Is Removed

and Mrs. Murphy of Orange at Manchester, N. H. When the baby was put to bed on Saturday night her pajamas were fastened on with safety pin.

Questioned about its disappearance, Barbara startled her mother by replying that she had swallowed it. Dr James Powers was called in and he advised immediate removal of the child to the Boston Infirmary as Manchester hospitals lacked the apparatus to deal with her.

A little later Barbara was taken to the operating room after X-rays located the open pin three-fourths of the way down her esophagus. A bronchoscope was employed, the pin closed and removed.

Plan to Send 500,000 Jews To Palestine

CHICAGO, April 25 (AP)—A national conference of the United Palestine appeal adopted resolution proposing the settlement in Palestine of 500,000 Jewish refugees annually for the next five years.

The proposal was recommended to President Roosevelt and the intergovernmental committee for refugee emigration being formed at his invitation, as the "major solution" of the problem of Jewish homelessness in central and eastern Europe, which conference leaders said had been recently aggravated by the absorption of Austria in the Nazi Reich.

An international commission for the settlement of Jews in Palestine to be established by the intergovernmental committee on lines analogous to the Greek refugee settlement commission and the Armenian settlement commission formed after the World War, was urged.

Henry Monitor, national director of the United Palestine Appeal, recommended that American Jewry raise $25,000,000 for Palestine settlement and overseas relief in 1933. The organization's goal has been $4,500,000 for 1933 for settlement of Jews from Germany, Austria, Poland, Rumania and other lands. Monitor announced the country had been divided into six regions of the United Palestine Appeal to intensify activities to raise funds for settlement in Palestine. The regions include New England and New York, with headquarters in Boston.

Trial at Once Asked for Irwin

NEW YORK, April 25 (INS)—Launching his first legal maneuver in the battle to save Robert Irwin from the death chair, Samuel Liebowitz today demanded immediate trial of Irwin for three murders.

The experiment was reported by Dr. Herbert E. Ives of the Bell Telephone laboratories, New York. He used a canal ray tube, shaped somewhat like a tube electric light. Lengthwise through it luminous but going and coming. This slower time is one thing scientists have predicted, provided light travels in "ether." Heavy Seas Add New Peril To Zoo Ship

It appeared only a matter of hours today before the doomed freighter City of Salisbury would plunge bow first into the sea as weather officials promised a heavy sea would be running late today.

Two score of Boston's longshoremen worked like beavers in a desperate race against the elements, transferring bales of wool, jute, sisal and other products of India from partly flooded compartments to a lighter lashed to the port side.

The keel is the only strand preventing the stern end from sinking. If that cracks the entire craft will be submerged.

Realizing the hazard of the situation the coast guard cutter Chelan stood at anchor, like a powerful watchdog, just to the northwest. Airplanes soared around the wreck.

Scores of prospective buyers of the animals visited the pier only to learn the animals consigned to New York have been rescued from the ship.

'Poison Girl' Accused of 2 Murders

NEW YORK, April 25 (INS)—Ignoring a previous announcement that he would seek a sanity test for 23-year-old Elizabeth Wagner, accused of the poison slaying of her two brothers, District Attorney Charles P. Sullivan today declared he would seek a first degree murder indictment against the girl.

The latest move came as Elizabeth, a peroled mental defective, was arraigned in Queens County Court, where the state won an adjournment until May 2 for further investigation. While the girl remained mute, her attorney, Robert Molinari, declared she had repudiated a confession that she poisoned Henry Wagner, 21, and Charles, 14.

"I didn't do it. I didn't put any poison in their food," he quoted her as saying. "I cleaned and cooked for them. Why should I kill them?"

Boynton Tried In Kidnaping

NASSAU, Bahamas, April 25.—Confidence that they will win acquittal of attempted kidnaping charges was expressed today at His Majesty's Jail by Stanley Boynton, Springfield, Mass., aviator, and Forrester Scott, Philadelphia lawyer, just before their trial opened.

The two are charged with attempting to seize Scott's two daughters from his former wife, Mrs. Harry Clark Boden, and fly them to the United States.

Their defense will be based on a Pennsylvania court order giving Scott part-time custody of the girls.

Pastor Warns Of Marihuana

A warning that police must stamp out marihuana dens for the protection of high school boys and girls was sounded today by the Rev. C. Gordon Brownville, pastor of Tremont Temple.

The pastor revealed that dens were filled up within easy reach of schools to enslave students in the vicious habit. He termed the habit an outstanding modern curse.

"The weed is easily grown in backyards and strict parental supervision is necessary. One of our great needs is for Christian motherhood. In my day we didn't have a lot of stream-lined mothers running around like aviator's flappers, smoking cigarettes and drinking cocktails."

Buerckel Given Austria Post

BERLIN, April 25 (AP)—Reichsfuehrer Hitler today decreed Joseph Buerckel "federal commissioner for the reunion of Austria with the German Reich," thereby further curtailing the power of Arthur Seyss-Inquart, governor of Austria.

In a letter to Seyss-Inquart, Hitler notified him of Buerckel's appointment as an Austrian minister in the Austrian cabinet after Austrian union was completed.

Buerckel, Nazi leader for the 1935 plebiscite which reunited the Saar region with Germany, was sent to Austria last month to take charge of political reorganization.

New Underpass Move by Tobin

MAYOR Tobin today asked the city council to approve a proposed bill for introduction in the legislature, authorizing the city to borrow money for an underpass under Huntington avenue at Massachusetts avenue.

Proposed, the mayor explained, is a $400,000 project in conjunction with the present $400,000 Huntington avenue subway, now under way. The city would spend 20 cents, get 80 cents in federal loans, the mayor said.

$432 LIQUOR STOLEN

Liquor worth $432 and clothing valued at $270 were stolen from the home of William B. Hirsch on Reynolds avenue, Everett, today, while the owner was away.

Cardinal Raps Radio Songs, 'Isms' Peril

Dance halls, the radio and "pagan fashions of the day" are corrupting young people, while "isms" threaten the nation, 400 men and women students from 23 New England Catholic colleges were told at a Holy Cross Cathedral communion.

By Cardinal O'Connell, the students, members of the New England province of the Federation of College Catholic Clubs, were urged to battle against paganism and indecency.

And by Patrick J. Moynihan, state deputy of the Knights of Columbus, they were warned against the inroads of dangerous "isms."

CARDINAL SPEAKS

In response to the Cardinal's address, the organization, at the communion breakfast in the Hotel Somerset, adopted the following resolutions:

"Desirous of maintaining the highest Christian standards in the moral, recreational and social life of the community, we pledge our undying allegiance to these standards and also publicly protest against the low and often indecent standards of many of our present-day radio and theater programs and much of our current literature."

Cardinal O'Connell said: "You don't have to be told by people who can mix acids and alkalis what your moral attitude should be. Christ told you that." He pointed out that Holy Writ warns of the folly of being too wise.

RAPS DANCE HALLS

"We see too many being wasted away on illusions today," said the Cardinal. "Don't put too much value on the immaterial and passing. Put your faith on the fixed and eternal."

"Don't be altered by the silly, pagan fashions of the day. If fashions have set out to make women ridiculous, they are certainly succeeding. In dress and all our silly dances and perfectly stupid music—where is the art in it?"

"These silly, foolish stupid songs they sing on the radio—they are unworthy and unfit."

Kennedy Pays DeValera Visit

LONDON, April 25 (INS)—United States Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy, himself of Irish descent, this evening paid a surprise visit to the residence of the prime minister of Eire, at the latter's hotel here.

Purpose of the visit, it was said, was to enable Kennedy to thank De Valera for hospitality extended to his wife and son when they visited Dublin last Summer.

Millions Are Fighting That Tired Feeling

Some people are always tired, no matter how much sleep they get. Often they are just suffering from constipation. For early fatigue, mental dullness, sleeplessness, sour stomach and its resultant bad breath, mental depression, the aggravation of most skin blemishes, can all be cured by it.

So keep regular. And if you need to assist nature, use Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. This gentle laxative can help bring relief. Extremely important, too, is the mild stimulation it gives the flow of bile from the liver, without the discomfort of drastic, irritating drugs. That's why millions are sold yearly. All druggists, 15¢, 30¢, 60¢.

Ma, Pa, Then Police Boy's Best Pals

A mother may be a boy's best friend, but next to mothers and fathers, Police Commissioner Timothy hopes a boy's best friends will be the stalwart members of Boston's police department.

For eight months, Commissioner Timothy revealed today, he has been working on plans for a "junior police force" composed of Boston boys who want to pledge themselves to law and order.

WANTS 'TOUGH KIDS'

Arrangements, he said, have been made with some of Boston's clubs and other organizations to extend junior memberships and athletic privileges to the new "junior police force."

"We want the 'tough kids' in our organization, especially," Commissioner Timothy said. "There'll be plenty of interesting things for them to do. Our idea is to show them a policeman really is their friend, and that they can have just as much fun doing the right sort of thing as getting into trouble."

NO 'SPY' WORK

"Also, I want to make it clear we're not going to expect any of these boys to turn informants. We'll not ask them for information, or to 'tell on' anybody. We'll not ask them to be 'policemen.' Simply, we want to help them keep out of trouble, and we want them to regard us as their friends."

House Weighs Pay-Hour Action

WASHINGTON, April 25 (AP)—The House rules committee decided today to begin hearings Thursday on whether to give the wage-hour bill legislative right of way.

Friends of the measure said that unless the committee decided special consideration there was little chance for its enactment.

The rules committee for weeks blocked wage-hour legislation last year before the measure was rejected by the House.

The revised bill would fix a minimum of 25 cents an hour, later to reach 40 cents. The work week would be 44 hours, to decrease to 40 hours in two weeks.

Dawes Under Knife For Appendicitis

NEW YORK, April 25 (AP)—Roosevelt Hospital disclosed today that Brigadier-General Charles G. Dawes, 73, former Vice-President, taken suddenly ill yesterday, had been operated on for "acute appendicitis."

Dawes came to New York to attend the wedding of Francis W. Pershing, son of General John J. Pershing.

This morning a nurse said the general's condition was "as good as could be expected."

BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN

Brotherhood

The Editor Says:

THE LIGHT OF TOLERANCE is bright in Boston, in Faneuil Hall particularly.

There, tomorrow evening, leaders of the Catholic, Protestant and Jewish faiths will assemble, united in brotherhood.

They will proclaim to the world their belief in democracy and their determination to hold firmly to the ideals of justice and equality that makes democracy possible.

Brotherhood Day is OUR day and YOUR day. Thankful for the freedom we enjoy, we owe it to ourselves and to our nation to go to the historic "Cradle of Liberty."

It is a PRIVILEGE and a DUTY to pledge anew our faith in the true principles of morality that have made us strong in the past, will keep us strong in the future.

TOMORROW'S AMERICAN BEAUTY,

according to Lawrence Tompkins, noted sculptor, will be the girl who resembles Mrs. James Roosevelt, a Bostonian.

Her "exquisite and delicacy" and the "brooding intelligence" that her features suggest will be the envy and the vogue of the nation, he assures us.

All we can do is hope. After the era of rouged cheeks, plucked brows and hair that resembled carved wood, most people will welcome the sight of faces that conform more to Nature's plan.

Each person has his OWN ideal. And that's the way it should be. There's enough regimentation in progress in this old world of ours without including faces and forms.

"IF YOU DON'T SUCCEED, TRY AGAIN."

The proverb may be somewhat moth-eaten, yet it's still good. Cambridge firemen prove that.

Called to the home of an apparently dead woman a few days ago, they attempted artificial resuscitation. As frequently happens, their best efforts were fruitless. Sending for the undertaker appeared a mere formality.

But one fireman objected. "Let's keep trying," he urged. "Keep trying" they did—for one hour, for two hours, three hours and four hours. Then, as if by miracle, the woman opened her eyes, breathed—lived!

This is an important lesson in perseverance. REMEMBER IT. Remember it especially when you see a person dragged from a river or lake.

Seeing is NOT believing—not when human life is at stake.

LET'S GO TO MAINE! There's a slogan for the nation—and a good one, too.

Governor Barrows, recent Boston visitor, tells us about the elaborate plans our Pine Tree State neighbors are making for the summer. He says:

"If you've never been to Heaven, come to us. You'll find we have the next best place."

Go to Maine. That's the thing to do. See for yourself that it IS a part of the United States, an extravagantly beautiful part.

The Political Parade

By George Rothwell Brown

WASHINGTON, APRIL 25

It would be a mistake to assume that Mr. Roosevelt's latest spending plan is the last-minute expedient of a desperate man, not knowing where else to turn, to keep his coalition in power, but to the public treasury.

The more opposition Senators go into the background of the whole dazling scheme, the more convinced they have become of a careful planning long in advance.

According to this theory—which is having a psychological effect at the Senate—the President never had a more carefully thought-out plan than this latest raid on the financial resources of the country.

It is perceived that the plan was advanced at a carefully chosen moment, when the primaries were getting under way, and Congress was working out by doing nothing—and doing it very well as the late W. S. Gilbert would say—was ready to call it a day and go home.

If the spending debacle had been submitted to Congress in January, it is believed it could have been defeated.

Coming in April it has had a more direct political appeal to those who are coming up for re-election, and who have been growing more and more apprehensive as the weeks of depression have added up to months.

That the spending spree was in the President's mind before he left Washington for Warm Springs seems clear.

Mr. Hopkins joined him in Georgia and returned with him, and Hopkins is the man who has the entire program under his hat.

Resistance is weakening at the House and stiffening at the Senate, but at both ends of the Capitol the discouragement is so great that there is virtually an admission that the only hope rests in a concentrated effort to block or modify the PWA part of the proposal.

It was no mere accident which brought the initial report of the Senate's committee on unemployment and relief, into the open last week.

That report in its analysis of the effect of tax reform upon business recovery, embodied the views of Bernard M. Baruch, long a friend and supporter of the President.

Mr. Baruch gave these views to the committee, at its request last winter. Many other views were also received by the committee, notably from the radical spenders of the New Deal.

But Mr. Baruch's views were those accepted as sound.

And it so happened that Mr. Baruch was in Washington, when the committee report was suddenly brought forward by Jimmy Byrnes, of South Carolina, the special committee chairman.

It was a gesture to bring powerful support from Democratic conservatives in the Senate, and in high place in the party, to Senator Pat Harrison.

Byrnes ranged himself beside Harrison at a moment when the conferees on the tax bill were in hopeless deadlock, at White House dictation.

It was designed to stiffen the Senate stand.

Undoubtedly it will have that effect.

Virtually the whole Southern and Northern wings of the old Democratic Party, in the Senate, are thus in the open against the New Deal radical wing.

Isn't It So?

Action may not always bring happiness, but there is no happiness without action.

Alcohol may drown troubles, yet it more often floats them.

Education is like good culture. It changes the size, but not the sort.

Peace is not made in documents. It comes from the hearts of men.

Life is the flower, but love is the honey.

What of Today, Tomorrow?

Opportunities Plenty, Henry Ford Declares

The Boston Evening American today presents the second in a series of exclusive articles disclosing Henry Ford's message to the people of America.

In his first article, published in the Boston Sunday Advertiser, the motor magnate said wheat is America's standard of prosperity and urged a back-to-the-farm movement.

By JOHN BRADFORD MAIN

(World Copyright, 1938, by The Boston Evening American. All Rights Reserved.)

America is still the land of opportunity!

Opportunities for young people, opportunities for men and women of all ages, in every conceivable field of endeavor, are going to be greater, in the not far distant future, than ever before in history.

NOW IS THE TIME TO SUCCEED!

That is Henry Ford's message to the young people, especially, of the United States—the hundreds of thousands of young men and young women who have come out of school during the depression, and who are wondering now "Is there going to be any place—are there any opportunities left—for me?"

It is his message, too, to the thousands of others, older persons, who, because they have lost their jobs and have been unable to find others while the depression has continued, fear that when good times come again there will be no place for them—that they will be left out.

Wednesday—the day after tomorrow—Mr. Ford will be in Washington for what will be an historic conference at the White House with President Roosevelt.

Those who expect Mr. Ford will take the President to task because of New Deal debt, may just as well prepare themselves for a surprise.

Standing before the ancient fireplace in Wayside Inn at Sudbury, Mr. Ford answered this reporter's questions in an expressive shrug.

"That debt?" he exclaimed, referring to the billions already poured out by the New Deal, and to the billions more the President has requested. "That debt will fade like a dream!"

An America so prosperous is emerging from the ashes of the present depression, Mr. Ford declared, that in future years we will look back upon our present fears of the gigantic "Roosevelt debt" and laugh at ourselves.

It will take time, of course, Mr. Ford agreed, for America to beat its way back. Too, when the new prosperity comes, he warned—

"It may very well be a different sort of prosperity from what we have been used to."

A prosperity, Mr. Ford indicated, based upon production and consumption, rather than upon mere possession of money. A prosperity of jobs and the ability to produce and consume, instead of a prosperity based merely upon dollars. A prosperity built on BUYING POWER—any new era in which employers will, actually, seek ways and means whereby they can pay their employees more because they will realize that by doing so they will be building more prosperity by increasing employees' ability to buy.

Meanwhile, what of the thousands now unemployed? What are they to do NOW?

With downright forthrightness, Mr. Ford said:

"Let them go and help somebody, even if they don't get paid for it."

Brutally stark advice, that, at first glance—and impractical. But Henry Ford, as everyone ought to know, is not an impractical man.

His eyes twinkled as he added. "That is, they THINK they won't be paid—but they will be! Oh, yes, they'll find they will be! It always works out like that."

"You know, you can't do a useful thing in this world and NOT be paid for it. That's hard to believe, isn't it? But it's so! Believe me, it's so!"

"Money? There's just the trouble!—there's too much talk about money, when money, if people only would realize it, can come only out of work."

"There isn't a man, woman or child living who can't find some useful thing to do."

"Find that thing, and do it for its own sake—for the sake of working, of being useful, of PRODUCING something."

"The rest will take care of itself. You WILL be paid."

"Believe me, I'm telling you the truth, young man, when I say to you there aren't enough hands, brains and skill in this world of ours to do the work that's needs to be done."

"That's why I've said, always, 'Schools! SCHOOLS! SCHOOLS!' Everywhere I could, I've founded schools—schools to teach boys and girls, yes, and older men and women, too, to DO things."

"You can't KNOW HOW too much, don't ever fear that. You can't learn ANYTHING without it's being of some USE to you—without its increasing your own usefulness."

"And remember—remember always—you CAN'T be of USE to anyone and NOT be rewarded for it. You can't GET AWAY something and get nothing, any more than you can GET anything FOR nothing. They're both inexorable laws."

"We're beginning to see that it's the work that's important."

"Without work, we're beginning to see, all the money in the world is unimportant. Remember what I said—money means nothing, is a token of things done. Without 'things done,' then, money merely becomes, valueless."

"SECURITY? THERE ISN'T ANY SUCH THING AS SECURITY! THE ONLY THING THAT MAKES ANYONE SECURE IS WHAT THEY KNOW AND WHAT THEY CAN DO!"

"THE ONLY ONES IDEAL IN THIS WORLD ARE THE PEOPLE WHO ARE TOO DARN LAZY TO LEARN HOW TO DO THINGS!"

What is HENRY FORD'S PERSONAL PHILOSOPHY OF LIVING? What is the point of view that has brought him success and that, he says he KNOWS will bring success to others? These are some of the things revealed in the succeeding articles of this series. Remember, the NEXT article will be published in THE BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN TOMORROW.

Henry Ford

Girl About Town

by Ann Marsters

STREET SCENE:—Pushcart men who cry their wares, are usually burly, self-sufficient individuals. But this one—the one we're going to tell about—wasn't like that. And he wasn't trying to sell anything either.

Heaven knows what he had on his cart, underneath the burlap covering, but you could see that it was very heavy. It almost overbalanced him and lifted him in the air when he tried to haul it up Boylston street, in the midst of the noon-day traffic.

Unfortunately, he got in front of a street car, and tugged away while horns honked and the motorman angrily clanged his bell. But he could neither turn out of the way nor run fast enough to keep any distance ahead. Finally, exhausted and stung by the motorman's reproaches, he made his way around the corner—and wept.

IN THE MORNING MAIL:—"Does anyone remember the old-time chimney sweeps?" asks Daniel Gott, of West Newton. "If you lived in a small town you probably saw him. He was black from head to foot and wore a tall black hat. A part of his equipment was a long rope draped over his shoulder. He looked like a hobgoblin and terrorized children with his eerie, unintelligible cries. For a small sum he climbed to the rooftop and dangled the rope down the chimney to loosen the winter accumulation of soot. A useful worker, he was, and surely one of the most colorful."

We've always had a vague impression that chimney sweeps were something out of story books. But we'd like to know if any more of you remember him—or if you were ever threatened with "the chimney sweep will get you if you don't watch out."

How About Lewis?

by Hugh S. Johnson

WASHINGTON, D. C.—One constant diversions in a worried world is unconsciously afforded me by John L. Lewis. I have other friends and some of them are economic royalists. To the extent that is polite, I get everything from raised eyebrows to skunk tails whenever I speak in approval of a man whom I regard as a great popular leader.

I get worse than that in open forums that I frequently conduct. These, while sometimes sprinkled with Communist hecklers, are chiefly middle-class people, who have been propagandized into believing that Mr. Lewis is a horned, tailed, sulphurous and personal devil. Nearly always somebody asks, "How about John Lewis?"

My answer is: "One of the Gen. Johnson best in public life." Silence is the mildest thing that draws. But I believe it, after perhaps the most intimate observation under the hottest fire that has been afforded any commentator.

The man is in a fight on two fronts—capital and labor—and he is a born fighter. A guy who would floor a man twice his size, as he did big Bill Hutchinson, for an intolerable fighting word, wouldn't be using puff-balls in a battle where the whole of his life's work is at stake.

I wish he hadn't done or said many things, but

And we're wondering what's done about chimney cleaning nowadays.

I SHALL NOT CARE
When I am dead and over me bright April
Shakes out her rain-drenched hair,
Though you should lean above me broken-hearted,
I shall not care.
I shall have peace as leafy trees are peaceful
When rain bends down the bough,
And I shall be more silent and cold-hearted
Than you are now.

—SARA TEASDALE.

SEEMS that zippers are not all they're zipped up to be. Zorina, the dancing star of "I Married an Angel" at the Shubert, has zippers on all her costumes—and she has eight quick changes during the show.

When the show opened in New Haven, it was the zippers, and not Zorina, that went temperamental. One of them jammed when she was trying to get out of a costume, and she had to scream for the scissors. Another time, the zipper wouldn't slide when she was trying to get into a costume. She had to resort to good old safety pins all the way up the back of her dress. "And," she said, "I had to dance the whole number without turning my back to the audience."

OVERHEARD CONVERSATION: Small boy being chased by angry schoolmate: "I didn't do nuthin' to you."
"You didn't? You gave me the measles, didn't you?"

SHOPPING HINTS:—Want a beer jacket? Something new and cute to wear over your slacks. In gay colors at Jordan's—for $1.50. . . Big-brimmed felt hats, copies of Schiaparelli's "witchery" hats, at Gilchrist's for only $2.95. . . New group of sheers at Hovey's Fifth Avenue shop. Lots of jackets and redingote styles. From $14.95 to $19.95.

when I ask myself: "What would you have done in a similar spot?" I have to confess: "Probably worse—to Hell with Spain and hang the Kaiser. When you are in a fight to the death, you use everything."

People in industry sometimes expect him to espouse causes which, while he may approve, happen not to aid his major aims. He is just too smart to fritter his force away in diversions. Recently, with him and one of our most distinguished scientists, discussing a matter of major economic importance, the thing that impressed me, as always, were his accurate detailed knowledge of every business phase of this highly complex problem.

If John had chosen business instead of labor, he might today be a prince of privilege.

Rough? Sure he is rough—so is every real scrapper. Using politics, pressure and even violence? Sure—so does his opposition. Dramatic and flamboyant? Sure—his job requires it. Accepting some alliances with doubtful people? Sure—so did Jackson when he enlisted the pirates. But he can handle them—just like Andy.

I can tell you this. I never asked him in NRA to do a thing against his interest, but which the country needed, that he did not come through instantly. You will never see him do a dishonorable thing, a cowardly thing, or commit an offense against friendship, decency or patriotism.

We would be better off if more of our leaders in both political and business life were more like John Lewis.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—The inside story of how Roosevelt happened to issue his public blessing of Britain's new love-feast with Mussolini can now be told. It shows how closely American foreign policy continues to ape the British.

Real fact is that the Roosevelt statement was issued at the direct request of British Ambassador Lindsay, acting on instructions from London. Sir Ronald came down to the State Department and said that a statement from the President would be a great aid to Premier Chamberlain and the Empire. Cordell Hull was on his vacation. So Sumner Welles, Acting Secretary of State, went across the street to see Roosevelt.

At the White House press conference several hours later, the President talked for 20 minutes about domestic problems, then just as the conference was about to close, a State Department reporter asked this inspired question:

"Mr. President, haven't you a statement to make about the British-Italian agreement?"

"Oh, yes," replied Roosevelt, "I almost forgot." In reading the statement, the President fumbled some of the words, so it was quite evident he was not familiar with its language. The meaning, however, was clear. It gave American blessing to the deal whereby Britain and Italy divide up most of the Mediterranean.

SIR RONALD—Friends of Sir Ronald Lindsay expect that he will be given one of the highest awards of the British crown for putting across the Roosevelt blessing of the Mussolini-Chamberlain pact.

Sir Ronald has been married to two distinguished American women, and should know the U. S. A.

WALLY'S BABY?—What happened to the rumor that the Duchess of Windsor was expecting a baby? Papers carried headlines about it a few months ago.

Here is the answer of her own entourage, never before printed.

American newsmen in London, prodded by their officers here, made a telephone call to the Windsor retreat in the south of France and got the Duke's secretary, Dudley Forwood, on the phone. They said they had to have some confirmation or denial of the rumor.

Forwood called back an hour later and gave them this information which he labeled "confidential."

"The Duchess says she can't have a baby without the consent of the British Parliament, and she'll be damned if she will ask their permission."

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

DO you belong to the "if chorus"?

Do you always look at life through the sickly green glasses of envy and self-pity?

We've all done it, in our time, but here comes spunky MARGARET McNAUGHTON WATSON of PITTSBURGH, PA., giving us a merry Snap-out-of-it!

"Listen Everybody!

"Would you like to know how to live? 'But I am alive!' you protest. Ten to one you're not. Most of us simply exist—never really live. The formula for real living is so simple—JUST OPEN YOUR EYES! . . . YOUR MENTAL AS WELL AS YOUR PHYSICAL ONES!

"Look at yourself first with those opened eyes. How are you facing life? Are you one of the IF CHORUS whose continual refrain is:

"IF ONLY! How different things would have been if I had a good job . . . a boss who appreciated me, a college education, a social position and lots of money . . . if I could travel!"

"PEOPLE DON'T UNDERSTAND YOU. Do you ever try to understand them? Or yourself? TIRED OF YOUR OWN TROUBLES? Take a look at somebody else's. You have a 'rotten job.' Have you ever given him any reason for it? The boss doesn't appreciate you."

"You want to travel. Do you know your own city? The city is a filthy, crowded place, you say. There is glamour in the city if you will only open your eyes to it—skyscrapers flinging proud heads to the sun; bridges—steel spider webs—arching over the swift mystery of a river; the noises from the street rising and blending into one great hymn to industry."

"Life lies WITHIN you, not without. Your world is only as big as your heart PLUS your imagination. The one brings you closer to the heart of the world; the other brings the world to your feet. No life can be lonely or ugly if the eyes are open. And no life need be."

"Margaret McNaughton Watson, age 21, Westfield street, Beechview, Pittsburgh, Pa." ($10 prize winner.)

A WHOLE philosophy of life for those who have the courage to APPLY IT TO THEIR OWN CUSSEDDNESS! Thanks, youngster! And now, vital tips on that plenty pressing problem—ARE LONG ENGAGEMENTS WISE? "YES!" says DONALD REILAND of WISCONSIN RAPIDS, WIS.

"Dear Elsie Robinson:

"You can bet that I am in favor of long engagements—at least, longer ones than we have now! When a fellow and a girl go together for a while they find out that more than looks go to make up a person."

"A pretty face and a good figure don't add up to a girl's whole personality, and it takes more than swell blood and curly hair to make the quarterback boy friend fit to become a lifelong companion."

"TOO MANY GIRLS AND BOYS GET MARRIED AND THEN START GOING TOGETHER. NO WONDER SUCH MARRIAGES ARE FLIPS!"

"I, for one, believe that marriage is a sacred thing, something you can't change like last year's necktie or a pair of socks. And I think that Young America as a whole feels the same way about it."

"All the trend these days is toward emphasizing the importance of sex appeal, good clothes, a snappy line, etc. So we often lose track of the real things upon which marriage is based . . . the brain-and-heart things which make marriage happy or unhappy."

"Donald Reiland, age 20, Baker street, Wisconsin Rapids, Wis." ($10 prize winner.)

The right slant, lad, and the stuff that makes for truly happy and lasting marriage. And then last comes little DOROTHY BRINCKMAN of CLIFTON STATION, VA., who, though only TEN YEARS OLD, could give lessons to many an older head.

"Dear Elsie Robinson:

"I think little girls of today grow up too quick. All the little girls of today that I know try to pretend they are grown up."

"I like to read good books for girls my age and still like my dolls. I get so much fun in this I can't see why other girls laugh at me when they see me playing with my dolls."

"I want to play with my dolls while I am still a little girl. I think I will have plenty of time to do grown things after I really grow up. Don't you?"

"Dorothy Lucille Brinckman, age 10, Clifton Station, Va." ($5 prize winner.)

Helen Rowland Says:

So many wise and witty new books telling "how to get your man" have appeared this season that if any girl doesn't know all the right answers, it's her own fault.

But the most refreshing thing about all of these little books is their frank admission (At long last!) that every woman wants a man in her life—a husband, a lover, an escort—whether she is a career-girl or not.

Of course, she does—so what? So the non-marrying girl is just a myth, all the cards are laid on the table, and the love-game is becoming an exact science.

"The Way to His Heart," by John Beekman, is a psychological study of the male, which no marrying girl can afford to miss. He tells you all the qualities and mental attitudes in woman which attract or repel men, and sums up with this discerning observation:

"Generosity, a willingness to be diverted and a conscious ability to be HERSELF—these characterize the ideal 'man's woman'; and she is a whole lot more than many of us deserve."

But frankest of all such tomes is "How About a Man?" by Hildegarde Dolson. A woman, of course! Trust a modern girl to spill the beans. The first chapter is entitled: "Wanted: A Man," and the last "Object: Matrimony." And you can't misunderstand that. Here are a few hot tips from this book.

"Heaven doesn't provide for the working girl, but an office provides Heaven-sent opportunities for meeting men."

"If you act like a door-mat, you can't blame a man for walking all over you."

And now won't somebody write a book about how to charm a woman? Or DON'T WE NEED TO BE CHARMED?

Emmanuel Class Plans Dance

Committee Guests Of Mary Denning

Emmanuel '36 may have a few ideas about dance-planning but of more immediate interest to them yesterday were the tempting snacks and dainty tea sandwiches passed about by Mary Denning of Brookline at her tea.

Original purpose was to interest everyone in the spring dance, May 13, at Woodland Country Club, but they indulged in no discussion of dance band or patrons or ushers. Conversation was concentrated on coming, weddings, spring clothes and other feminine foibles.

But, if Rita Guthrie of Belmont the chairman, is as efficient as she was at tea-pouring yesterday, all will go well. Rita had a lot of experience and can call on any member of the family for advice. These are all prime movers in the Proprietors Club.

Her raspberry was suit and pale blue blouse was different, while Mary Kearney of Malden is her assistant preferred a black crepe stencilled with pink flowers.

Other girls who have dance chores to do are Virginia Busby

SPRING DANCE—Class of '36, Emmanuel College, prepares systematically for good time to be held at Woodland Country Club, May 13, and the above three pretty committee members are providing the system. of Arlington, Helen Goodwin of Roslindale, Ida Donovan Good of Roslindale, Gertrude Larkin of Worcester and Margaret Macken of Newton.

Single ladies' sodality members of St. William's Church of Dorchester sing their swan song tomorrow evening at a Hotel Touraine dinner.

Rev. Mark Kéthane, director of the group during the winter, will serve as combination host and master of ceremonies, with Edna Bragdon, president, greeting all arrivals.

The musical program planned by Mary Quinn will feature Kay Nee and Ann Black, while Martha Ryan has taken the job of decorating. Her willing aides include Alice Welch, Julia Kelley, Edna Cole, Gertrude Ryan, Marion Joyce, Mary O'Shea, Margaret Kennelly and Margaret Ring.

All who plan to attend should contact Mary Watts, reservations chairman, while Margaret Barry and Margaret Collins are busy selecting favors and corsages.

With fond papa serving as president of the American Architectural Society, Alice Maginnis should have some interesting information to distribute at the meeting of the Massachusetts Chapter of the International Federation of Catholic Alumnae, Thursday evening at the League House.

Alice is a former member of the board, but since her retirement she's been all over the world with special emphasis placed on China for an extensive study on its art. She now serves on the staff of the Museum of Fine Arts.

The evening was the idea of Eleanor Dean Campbell who, assisted by Mrs. Malcolm McBride, Gertrude Grady and Mrs. Joseph Desry.

Alumnae group will be represented on the committee by Mrs. Emily Mitchell of Sacred Heart Country Day school, Mrs. Martin Caulfield of Roxbury Notre Dame, Agnes Linnehan of Academy of the Assumption, Mary Colwell of Boston Notre Dame and Catherine Howard of Rosary and Eleanor Farrell of Maryville.

Others taking lively part in Thursday evening's art discussion are the federation's directors, Dr. Mary Spencer, Gertrude Griffin and Sue Sheridan.

Boston After Dark

By GEORGE HOLLAND.

ATTORNEY-GENERAL PAUL DEVER will announce his candidacy soon—for attorney-general. . . . James Cagney will be "at home" at Chilmark (Martha's Vineyard) May 1. . . . How long the East Boston tunnel will stay uncorrugated after Suffolk Downs opens is a summer-something to plague Mayor Tobin, who inherited also a winter of heavy snow. . . . "Galloping Glue Pots" is the cynical title of a short story about horses which Bobby Ahern hopes will intrigue Editor Weasley Stout. . . . Working between shows and rehearsals of the Boston engagement of "The Man From Cairo," Harry Wagstaff Gribble, director of the play, is dramatizing "The Deadly Dowager," by Edwin Greenwood.

Stark human drama is the true story of a Boston medical student, in a Class-A institution, who recently signed the report of his own doom. . . . A chore of the curriculum is that students take their own blood-tests, and submit the analysis in a high-school student might hand to his teacher a solved problem in geometry. . . . This youth tested his own blood, and found the "white-count" so far from normal that death within six months is probable. . . . What his reactions were seems to be the subject of a tremendous feature story. . . . The report duly went to the professor, who questioned the youth. . . . Yes, the student realized the seriousness of his condition. . . . Moreover, he was positive of the accuracy of his test. . . . Tests by specialists confirmed the young man's report. . . . The malady is said to be surely fatal.

From a source very close to the Dafe-Dionne situation, this column learns that Papa and Mama Dionne are now worth approximately $200,000. . . . Pa Dionne gets paid for his autograph, and has an interest in the portrait-right to his famous quintuplets. . . . And Dr. Dafe himself is authority for the news that woman-tourists to the Dionne nursery continually express a wish to see Papa Dionne. For this, there is no charge.

Once Over Lightly:

All three prospectives (in this column's book) for the main contention in the Democratic free-for-all for governor have been invited to Lowell Thursday night. . . . Hurley, Kelly and Curley. . . . And that, from this distance, is the most possible lineup for the primary-fight. . . . The Lowell event is a dinner honoring Mrs. Theresa V. McDermott, who has been re-elected president of the Lowell Democratic Women's Club. . . . If Governor Hurley accepts the invitation, which is unlikely, the event might breed a good story. . . . It may even without the governor's presence. . . . That hand-shaking for a Middlesex audience by the governor and Lieutenant-Governor Kelly was just in fun. . . . The latter has some more questions prepared for the Lowell occasion.

In "Test Pilot," the Gable personality persists in holding attention. . . . He appears more youthful than in recent pictures, and the kid (he begins at 40) can really act. . . . And are they going to keep killing off poor Spencer Tracy from this point on? . . . Incidentally, and in spite of a foreword explaining that commercial aviation holds none of the risks of testing planes for Uncle Sam, this fast-moving picture won't stimulate the rush toward the East Boston airport, or any other airport. . . . The airlines co-operated, too.

Sunday morning to Monday morning Boston visitors of the theatrical set: Bramwell Fletcher, who is playing in the revival of "The Circle" in New York. . . . He came to town to visit with Mrs. Fletcher (Helen Chandler of "The Man From Cairo"). . . . Jeanne Har, formerly of the cast of "There's Always a Breeze," which played at the Wilbur six weeks ago. . . . Miss Hart and Emilie Avery, assistant stage director of "The Man From Cairo," are very happy in each other's company, daylight saving time or standard.

In this fan-club, the most elect of the members were graded according to the number of performances they had witnessed with their idol in the spotlight. . . . And they exchanged autographs, too. . . . A Wallerite placed their pet at scratch, and three Beerbohm-Trees signatures for one Waller was the rate of exchange. . . . If the signature-hounds would take this column's rating, Clark Gable would be the No. 1 favorite to the movies.

Happiness Note:

There seems to be a wave of dissatisfaction about the division of the spoils accruing to minors. . . . The quintas are too young to be interested in money as yet, but Jackie Coogan is old enough to count. . . . It is refreshing to see pictures of Jackie Coogan and his mother abiding harmoniously under the same roof. . . . And it's the roof of the Rita-Carlton, which makes it cozy.

Chatter:

A baby girl has arrived at the menage of the Christopher Griffens. The father is Benny Goodman's trumpet-player. . . . City Councillor Maurice Sullivan will march at the head of a "delegation" to the offices of the "L" a week from today. The young councillor sees need of improvement in the Brighton-Newton and Watertown service. . . . The name of Joseph F. O'Connell, former congressman, is expected to be forwarded to President Roosevelt as a nominee for a place on the Federal bench here. . . . If you are an "alphabetic card-puncher" there's a $1260 job available at the U. S. Civil Service Commission Federal Building. The South End Republican Club will hold its eighth annual dance tonight at the Ritz-Plaza ballroom. . . . Bob Feeney's Shepherd Club O'Leary's Irish Minstrels hired for the rhythm and melodies, will entertain Thursday night at the Bradford.

Betty Alden on Beacon Hill

Weddings Unite Boston, Chicago

By Betty Alden

THIS season Dan Cupid seems to have set his heart on weaving more closely together the family ties which link Boston and Chicago society.

During the past few months he has successfully planned outstanding romances between sons and daughters of families prominent in the Windy City and on Beacon Hill. . . . Chicago has been furnishing most of the husbands and husbands-to-be. . . . Chauncey Hutchins who married Polly Wardwell last month. . . . Marshall Field, Jr., who will be married to Joanne Bass sometime in the near future. . . . but two weddings which will take place the latter part of May and middle of June, will reverse the process and furnish the brides. . . .

The wedding of Joan Ryerson and George W. Brewster, Jr., of Beacon street, will take place May 28th at Lake Forest, Ill., home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Ryerson. . . . Her cousin, Nora Ryerson (who calls herself Nancy, daughter of the Edward Ryersons of Chicago, has chosen their summer home at Marion, Mass., and June 18th as the place and time for her marriage to George Ranney also of the Windy City. . . .

Friends are eagerly awaiting the return of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin A. G. Thorndike from Hungary. . . . to hear the details of the wedding of Mrs. Thorndike's brother, John P. Gardiner, Jr., to Julia Geszty of Budapest. . . . because first news that the wedding took place last Wednesday is just arriving in Boston, and even the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John P. Gardiner of Brookline, don't know any of the details, as yet. . . .

The new Mrs. Gardiner is the daughter of Madame Geszty of Budapest. . . . An accomplished linguist, she has been engaged in journalism in various parts of the world and met her bridegroom in the Far East while she was correspondent for a prominent Hungarian paper. . . . She recently published a book on the Far Eastern situation. . . .

Since his graduation from Harvard in 1929, Mr. Gardiner has represented an American firm in China, but has recently been transferred back to this country, so he and his bride are expected to come to Boston shortly. . . . He is a brother of Rosamond Gardiner, as well as Mrs. Thorndike, who was Betty Gardiner. . . .

Swanky Names on Two Family Trees

Practically every name on the list of guests at Elinor "Borfy" Fay's wedding to Irvin Garfield, Jr., in Harvard Memorial Chapel, Saturday afternoon, can be found on one of two family trees. . . . the Peabodys and Garfields. . . . which are as deeply rooted in old Bay State tradition as the famous Washington Elm. . . .

Some of the outer twigs and branches of these two wide-spreading old trees have even brushed together at several places. . . . for Mrs. Nathaniel Emmons, who came on from Long Island for the wedding and reception, is related to both families. . . . She was a Lawrence, therefore a cousin of the bride's mother. . . . and her late husband was the bridegroom's uncle. . . . Her smart navy dress, printed with mimosa flowers, navy hat and yellow bag and gloves, brought a sophisticated Manhattan touch to the conservative atmosphere of the small chapel in Harvard Yard. . . .

Rev. Endicott Peabody Performs Rites

The tenderest sprout of either family tree to attend the wedding, was a toddling, two-year-old little Fay Bailey, niece of the bride, and daughter of the matron of honor, Mrs. Robeson Bailey. . . . She was so curious about the proceedings and asked so many questions that her governess had to take her outside and close the chapel door. . . . When "Borfy," the smiling bride, swept up the aisle out of the chapel on the arm of her new husband, she paused to bestow a kiss on her tiny niece. . . . who was still trying to figure what it was all about and why "Mommy" and "Auntie Borfy" were so dressed up. . . .

The bride's uncle, Rev. Endicott Peabody, headmaster of the Groton School, performed the ceremony. . . . while his wife sat with other members of the family on the left of the chancel. . . . Mrs. Richard D. Fay, mother of the bride, was a youthful figure in a flowing chiffon gown of palest gray, with a lace bodice and pinkish orchids tucked in the girdle. . . .

Her sister, Mrs. Leon Abbett, who came on from Glen Cove, L. I., with her daughters, warmly greeted many old friends. . . .

SOCIALITES POSE—A modern painting was depicted by Miss Florence Dysart and Mr. Robert Niles at Boston's third Modern Arts Ball at the Somerset, counterpart of Manhattan's Beaux Arts Ball. Merrymakers were a variety of costumes. Miss Dysart is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Dysart, Brookline. Mr. Niles is the son of Mrs. Nathaniel Niles, Boston.

Future Bride Attendant

Frances Ingersoll Proctor, who will become the bride of John B. Wilkinson early in June, named a little princess as wedding attendant to the tune of the wedding march this weekend.

She acted as a bridesmaid at the wedding Saturday afternoon of Nancy, Kennedy daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Kennedy of Elizabeth, N. J., and Captain M. J. John McKee, near Haverhill, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. McKee of Haverhill, and James McKee, Jr.

The ceremony was performed in Trinity Church, Elizabeth, N. J., by the Rev. Robert Lee Bull, Jr.

Davis Lelands At Ceremony

Mr. and Mrs. John Davis Leland of Chestnut Hill went down to Philadelphia Saturday to take part in the wedding of Hester Marie Laning to Dr. D. Sargent Pepper. At the ceremony in St. James Protestant Episcopal Church Mrs. Leland was matron of honor. Mr. Leland was one of the ushers.

The bride is the daughter of Rear Admiral Hays Laning and Mrs. Laning. Dr. Pepper is the son of Dr. William Pepper and the late Miss Mary Gregory Pepper.

Lucy Stone and Frances Chapman will become brides at fashionable ceremonies on the last day of the month. Polly Powers has chosen Friday, the 29th, as the date for her marriage to William Tyson Kemble, and there is Boston interest in the wedding of Frances Rousmaniere and Richard Salter Storrs, Jr., on Wednesday in New York City.

The bride has a number of Boston relatives, many of whom are planning to attend the ceremony. Dr. and Mrs. James Bourne Ayer of Milton and their daughter, Mrs. Robert Saltonstall, Jr. (Nancy Ayer), and Miss Mary Rousmaniere will be among the guests. 'My Love Is New' -:- -:- By Iris Bennett

What Has Happened:

CONSTANCE DARBY is just 20 and terribly in love with TERRY CANNON, assistant athletic coach in an up-state college. In June he and Connie plan to marry the following October. For the summer, Terry will act as swimming instructor at a boys' camp and Constance will be secretary to GORDON KEITH, well-known newspaper correspondent, radio commentator and ladies' man.

ROSALIND, Constance's 18-year-old sister, envies the life of luxury enjoyed by the folk who live in that exclusive part of the town called "The Hills." She has been seeing the wealthy playboy, VAN HOWARD.

While working for Gordon at the Carter Estate, Constance meets AVIS BAILEY, attractive young debutante. The latter is obviously interested in the handsome Gordon. When Gordon says that some day he and Constance will play tennis with Avis and Van Howard, Constance is troubled.

Time passes and one day, as Gordon helps Constance with her coat, his hands rest on her shoulders. A rush of emotion sweeps over her. Why had his touch stirred her? Brooding over Van, Rosalind attempts suicide. It develops, she and Van are married.

Thanks to Gordon, Van's mother is reconciled and Rosalind goes to live "on the hill." Would she become so much like them that she would forget her own people and Vine street?

Now Continue:

CHAPTER 13

Driving home later Constance thought of the friends they had become. There had been no repetition of the scene that rainy day when she had been almost in his arms. And yet she was afraid of looking at him when she knew his black eyes were set intently on her, afraid to glance up from her work, and afraid for her voice to break the silence between them.

Every nerve in her seemed to spring alive during those moments. And she was afraid.

Driving leisurely through the Hills, she thought, "I'm trying to make something out of nothing." And then realized with a shock that she was evading the issue. She sat up quickly and called herself to sharp attention.

Was she... Oh, no, it was incredible! Was she falling a little in love with Gordon? Was he falling a little in love with her?

Oh, no! She must not think such things. After the summer he would be gone, and in October she would be married to Terry. And suddenly she had a terrible longing to see Terry and feel his arms around her, enclosing her in safety.

Weeks later she was to remember this late afternoon and realize that wanting to be in Terry's arms was like whistling in the dark when you are afraid.

At home she found her mother standing over the stove, drying her eyes with a crumpled handkerchief. WAS SHE ASHAMED?

Standing in the doorway, Constance asked, "What's wrong, Mother?"

"Rosalind hasn't been to see me or called me this week. And I miss her so! I was always doing things for her. I—I guess I just can't get used to the idea of her being married. But she shouldn't treat me like this."

Coming into the blue kitchen, she put her arms around her mother, thinking, "No, you shouldn't be treated like this. Will Rosalind drop away from us completely? She said one night she wished she had been born somebody else.

ROSALIND BRUSHED by with a chilly "Hello, Constance." She had changed! She was like the "hill crowd." No longer a care for mother, home and Vine street. Constance shuddered. It was a cruel blow.

"Now she has everything, she wants and she's accepted by the people she's always wanted to be with. Nina Howard said to it that she was accepted. But her own mother."

"Rosalind is busy," she said gently. "So much has happened to her. You'll have to forgive her for forgetting just now."

"Your father thinks she won't come at all after a while. I couldn't bear it!"

Sighing, she said, "There's a letter from Terry on the living room table. I should have told you about that first."

As Constance turned away, she added, "I saw Terry's mother in the drug store today and I don't think she approves of your working for Gordon Keith."

"She didn't say anything really against it but—but I could tell Constance, please don't do anything..."

Her face flamed. But she said quietly, "I hope people aren't beginning to gossip about me."

TERRY YOUNG LOVE

Eagerly she tore open Terry's letter and sat on the brown sofa beneath a lamp to read it.

He wrote, "How I miss you and how I think about you! It's very quiet up here and one of these nights something coming in is going to think I've gone slightly crazy, because I talk to your picture. But that's an old habit of mine, talking to your picture."

"Nothing much happens here except a few minor accidents to the kids. When are you coming up? Mike's wife, Donna, is anxious to meet you. She laughs and says, 'But, Terry, no girl could possibly be as beautiful as your Constance! I want her to see!'"

"I said the nights were lonely but they're beautiful with moonlight on the river and the pine trees. And I want you, Constance, and love you."

Slowly she folded the letter. Her heart felt full. If only it were not so far to him, she would go instantly.

Why did they have to be separated this summer? She had written him of Rosalind's marriage but he had not mentioned it.

"He didn't mention it because he was thinking so much about me."

The next day she called Gordon and told him she would not be at the Spanish house until late. But she did not tell him it was because she must have a new dress for Saturday night. Rosalind must not be ashamed of her.

And so she spent several hours that morning buying an ice-blue chiffon dress, silver sandals, gossamer stockings the color of her sun-burned legs, and artificial flowers to wear in her hair.

But a corsage of orchids, the first orchids she had ever had, were waiting when she came home on Saturday afternoon. And Ruth Darby watched her as she took them from the box and looked at them.

And suddenly Ruth, looking at the loveliest of her two daughters, was afraid, too.

Let nothing happen to the love between her and Terry?

Let nothing alter it or tarnish it? Nothing ever had, but Gordon Keith was a worldly, glamorous man, a very handsome man...

She went upstairs that night when Constance was dressing.

"That's the prettiest dress you've ever had, dear."

Though the mirror Constance smiled.

"And the most expensive. I shouldn't have bought it but I didn't want Rosalind to think I looked different from the other girls. She shops at the best places these days, you know."

"Yes, she has everything now. She doesn't know I'll be there tonight."

The bell rang as she was coming down the stairs alone. And Gordon came in and stood tall above her in the dimly lighted hall where so often Terry had stood over her.

Funny to think of Terry's many good-night kisses with Gordon here. She felt guilty. Why?

What was the matter with her? Why did she have such thoughts? Smiling, taking her hands, he held her away from him.

"My secretary? It can't be! Not this lovely lady!"

Should he draw her close and kiss her now? She could not protest too vehemently with her parents in the house. No, he would not kiss her now. But later...

People on the country club veranda looked critically at Constance as she passed and then turning their heads, their eyes followed her into the club house hall.

"Somebody asked, 'Who is she?'" There was interest in the eyes of the men, curiosity in the eyes of the girls.

One young man spoke up, "Why, that's Gordon's secretary and Rosalind Howard's sister. Not bad, what? Not bad at all! Wonder what Avis will say to this. She's not used to playing second-string to anybody."

In the brightly lighted hall Gordon said, "You go upstairs and turn right and leave your coat there. I'll be waiting here for you."

Upstairs everyone seemed to know each other. There was a chilly silence when Constance came in and she felt their eyes look her up and down.

Then they resumed their talk of clothes and parties and foreign travel. Feeling her heart beating fast with excitement, she took off her white coat and parted her hair in place.

Wouldn't anybody dance with her except Gordon and perhaps Van?

Turning, she saw Rosalind in a dress of coral colored satin come in. And before she could speak her delight to see her, Rosalind's eyes swept past her to the other girls and she began to fumble in her jeweled bag for her compact.

Then coolly she said, "Hello, Constance."

Constance stood still and caught her breath. Rosalind was ashamed of her, ashamed for these expensively dreamed girls to know that they were sisters, ashamed of every face from Vine Street and every contact of her old life.

"So this is what luxury has done to you," she thought.

"This is how you haven't been to see your mother."

One girl spoke up, "Hello, Rosalind. What a gorgeous dress!"

And still another, "Don't forget the shower we're giving Sheila on Wednesday and the cocktail party Thursday at my house."

Rosalind's snub was like a blow in the face that continued to sting. Turning, Constance went down the wide, white steps. Why had she anticipated this night?

"HELLO SISTER?"

How foolish she had been to think about it and go into debt for it so that Rosalind would not be ashamed of her!

After two dances with Gordon, Van cut in.

"Hello, sister," he said cheerfully. "How've you been? You look great. And you dance almost as well as my wife. See Rosalind?"

"I saw her upstairs."

Marriage had improved him. Everyone said that.

He grinned. "Take me now, Constance! You'd better. I'm your brother. Why don't you come up to the house some time?"

She had never been invited... He said, "Married life is great. There's nothing like it." And laughed, "Gosh, I must be boring you."

"You look very happy, Van."

"I'm the happiest guy in the world. Why shouldn't I be? I don't know why I didn't get wise to myself sooner. Playboys reform. Give the little lady the credit."

"But no kidding, I even like my work and I felt like a millionaire the first pay day. Getting a fat allowance was nothing to that little pay check..."

Beets Colorful And Delicious

By MARTHA LEE

Let's thank the commercial canners who had the wisdom to pack beets in glass.

Beets whole, sliced or diced will bring a sparkle of color and a pleasing flavor contrast to your menus. Beet relish affords a perfect complement for roast beef. Beets and Chinese cabbage salad with mustard dressing served as an appetizer is smart and new.

BEET RELISH

- 1 cup chopped canned beets.
- 2 tablespoons grated onion—fresh good.
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice.
- 2 teaspoons fine red sugar.
- 1 teaspoon salt.

Mix ingredients in other glass. Serve.

BEET AND CHINESE CABBAGE SALAD WITH MUSTARD DRESSING

- Chopped canned beets.
- Chinese cabbage.
- 1 tablespoon onion.
- 1 tablespoon mustard.
- 2 teaspoons flour.
- 1 teaspoon salt.
- Dash of cayenne.
- 2 egg yolks.

Scald vinegar, dilute one-half if very strong, and melt the butter in the vinegar. Mix seasonings and add to the egg yolks beaten slightly. Pour the hot vinegar over this, return to the double boiler, and cook until thickened, stirring constantly. Strain and cool. Add to finely chopped beets and let stand in refrigerator for three or four hours. Then place in salad bowl, place a border of lettuce leaves outside and between beets and lettuce arrange a border of finely cut Chinese cabbage. Or make individual servings.

Hollywood Diet

By ARLINE GOULD

WILL the waves be wild about the way you look, or will they turn their backs on you and rush away with a disapproving roar . . . have you stopped to consider your figure while your head has been in a springtime whirl?

Come down to earth a minute, and consider glamour. The Hollywood figure-glamour, to which the whole world bows, regardless of what it thinks of that village's fashions and mode of living!

Hollywood has learned the lesson of dieting to beauty at the cost of health and careers . . . others, like Carole Lombard, have found ideal diets that eliminate the starvation method. And one of the favorites is the 3-Day Liquid Diet, which not only has been known to relieve the owners happily of about five pounds of embonpoint a week, but has cleared the system until it was slick as a whistle and vibrating with renewed energy.

It works on the principle of small quantities at frequent intervals and the very sound of the fruit and vegetable juices and soup on which it is based is tempting! To follow up the three-day liquid regime, there is dainty and very adequate yet also ideal reducing menu which you might use for several days before going back to your regular diet. You'll find yourself so trained to taking only the necessary foods that you can go on forever basing your food habits on these rules—and gaining all the more in a lovely body and a magnetic, healthy glow!

If you'd like your copy of the 3-Day Liquid Diet, write Arline Gould, Boston American, immediately and inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Beatrice Fairfax Advises on Love

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Foolish pride is the sure road to unhappiness.

So many of us walk around on mental stilts, never daring to come down to earth. Yet suffering real pain because we haven't the courage to bend down and admit our errors.

Such a man is John L., who writes:

"I am as independent as the devil, and I know it. But I just could not humble myself—even to my wife."

"Of course, I realize I am the cause of the trouble that has broken our home. I insisted on living with my family after marriage and laughed at my wife's objections."

"She did her best. But, finally, she had all she could stand and left. I can't get over living without her. I've seen her several times, but somehow I can't bring myself to ask her to come back. "Could you advise me how to go about asking her? She wants to return to me just as badly as I want her."

John should not let another sun set before he goes to his wife and tells her that he is sorry for all that has happened. It will be so easy—so effortless.

Let him come down to earth for only five minutes, and he'll thank his lucky stars forever.

Austen Lake Says: Stengel Hopes for Small Miracle

THE CASE OF RAYMOND BRINKERHOF, the New York stevedore-pitcher whom Casey Stengel picked up for his Bees after the lad had repaired his stalled motor, may not be a perfect parallel to the underlying yarn. But it reminds one that the head Bee, Bob Quinn, has always been one of baseball's notable soft touches for itinerant ball players. Bob, like Casey, believes in looking for little miracles.

AUSTEN LAKE

But the case of Mr. James B. Forrest is tops, even in Quinn's beneficent career. It was charity with a kickback.

Forrest attached himself to Quinn's Red Sox in Pensacola in the spring of 1931, arriving fresh, except for a strong musk odor from the freight sidings with wisps of cattle bedding in his hair. He presented Bob with a stained testimonial from John McGraw, dated 1928, reading that the bearer was undoubtedly the greatest barefoot outfielder of all time.

"Only," concluded McGraw, "I do not wish to discourage the Giants' young and sensitive talent by signing such a star-spangled wow."

Stylist With the Bat

BEING RICH IN GOOD DEEDS, Quinn told Heinie Wagner, his then manager, to let the shaggy yokel sleep and fatten up for a few days before shagging him on his way. And Forrest promptly elected himself a full brother of the lodge and fell into easy intimacy with the Sox players, who named him "Flash," and took extra pains to make him snug with the ladies, whom he in turn named "Sugar."

At the ball yard they rigged the lad out in a leftover uniform, which he put on directly next to his naked skin, and they even let him take a turn in batting practice. This, it should be understood, was no small kindness, because usually the old-timers are quick to bare a raw of jagged tusks and snarl harsh profanities at any rookie nervy enough to crash the batting order.

Of course, it was perfectly plain from the first that Mr. Forrest was a stylist with the bat who swung with a motion halfway between a candy-pull and dry-fly casting. He cramped his elbows against his ribs and swivelled his body in swift, convulsive jerks that caused him to give out a curious whinney with each swipe. But I recall that once he tunked the ball down a foul line, upon which he snatched off his cap and went tearing around the bases in a bandy-legged gallop which had the other players sliding off the backstop pipes and rolling in an ecstasy of delight.

He Adopted the Red Sox

IT WAS PLAIN TOO THAT AFTER A few days Mr. Forrest was growing fond of the Red Sox and proposed to adopt them permanently, a matter which began to annoy Bob Quinn, more than somewhat, as he perceived that the morale of his men was beginning to leak slowly through the pores of their skins.

One evening, Mr. Forrest eased up to Secretary Phil Troy, who will testify to the accuracy of this tale, and demanded of that exceedingly tough tyke in money matters, "How's about drawing fifty on account?" Well you can imagine, "Fifty," screamed Troy, flapping his arms like a hysterical rooster, "Fifty what?"

"Why," said Mr. Forrest, in mild surprise, "fifty cents, to be sure." So, finally, Quinn, wishing to be delicate, cooked up a fake telegram which he had one of the journalists type on a regular form and which read, "If you are still unsigned can offer you steady berth with the Cubs Report at once." (Signed) Joe McCarthy, Catalina Island, Cal.

McCarthy wished Mr. Forrest to be as far away as soon as possible. So a bellhop delivered the message while Quinn and the boys smothered their giggles behind some potted palms in the corner of the hotel lobby. And for a long time Mr. Forrest spelled out the text of the telegram while scrubbing the stubble of his chin with a long forefinger. It took a long time, because, at best, Mr. Forrest was not a quick thinker.

Quinn Is Still Hoping

SUDDENLY THE "WORLD'S GREATEST barefoot outfielder" jerked up his chin as though stiffened by a great resolve. "Hooked," said Heinie with satisfaction. Mr. Forrest slew-footed across toward Quinn, who, though he never smokes, suddenly decided to buy a package of cigarettes.

"Mr. Bob," boomed the youth, a light of virtue in his eye, "I got here a mighty fine offer from the Cubs. But you been so white that I ain't gonna jump y're club. No Sir! I'm sticking right with your Red Sox." And he thrust out a horny paw as a gesture of loyalty, shaking Bob's limp hand till he was like to shudder him out of his clothes. Now, in the end, Quinn finally shed his guest I fail to recall, except that it was something of a major operation.

So it illustrates what kind of a fellow feeling Quinn has that he still takes on an occasional athletic drifter. He hasn't quit hoping for that little miracle.

Bees-Dodgers Off Sox Seek Hurler

Rookies Fail Easy Test Against A's

By JOE CASHMAN

WASHINGTON, April 25—Christopher Columbus was the name of the Red Sox car on the trip from Philadelphia to the capital, and it carried a baseball discoverer named Joseph Edward Cronin.

Sad to relate, though, Skipper Cronin wasn't doing any cheering over the discovery he had made just before leaving Quaker town. He had found out that four new members of his pitching crew—three of them on their first big league excursion—lacked the skill to steer the Sox craft safely past such a minor obstacle as Connie Mack's diamond fleet.

Emerson Dickman, Charlie Wagner, Dick Midkiff and Byron Humphreys all ran up on the rocks. In sharp contrast to the performance of Jim Bagby, who showed promise galore on his initial outing, there was nothing encouraging about the display of any one of the Sabbath quintet as it drowned in a 10-4 wreck.

When it was all over, Cronin was bittered through the first frame if an infield pop had been caught. But he'd have escaped with only one instead of two four runs being charged against him, had he been able to laugh off the crack in his support in big league fashion.

Wagner, getting a chance to redeem himself for losing away an edge over the Yanks last week, yielded two runs as soon as his mates had pulled up to within a run of a tie.

Midkiff and Humphreys, under no pressure what with the tilt as good as settled before they showed up, were yet found for four runs in four frames.

When it was all over, Cronin was inquiring as to the location of the nearest telephone station. Maybe he wanted to advise E. Trowbridge Collins to redouble his (E. Trowbridge's) efforts to get another established ace.

Fred "Lefty" Ostermiller, who was surprisingly brilliant in blacking the Yanks with one hit for six innings on Tuesday last, will open this p. m.

Rain Halts Invasion of Stengel Foes

By BILL GRIMES

Rain halted the attempt of the Bees to run up their third straight victory today when the weatherman k. o'd the opening clash with Brooklyn at the Hive.

This delay did not rest too well with Stengel who was planning to shoot Jim Turner at the gang from Flatbush today.

The Bees pilot has no love for the daffn'ns boys after being cast adrift at the start of last season and every game will be a battle of personal vengeance as far as he is concerned.

Since Jim Turner is top man on the staff at present, he still goes tomorrow.

Turner is the only National League hurler to beat the Giants this season.

The Dodgers took two out of three from the Phillies in the opening series but then they went into a nose dive and lost two to the Giants at home.

Since the opening game of the season, the Bees have been "pitching" the pitching. As a result they have won three out of their last four slugs.

Turner stopped the Giants in the second game of the campaign when Gene Moore bumped a home run against the left field scoreboard with the bases full.

In the first game of the Phillies' series, Lou Fette limited Jimmy Wilson's boys to three scratch hits and a healthy one, and the Bees came up with a 3 to 1 win.

Danny MacFadden was even better than Fette for he allowed only three hits and shut out the Phillies, 2 to 0, in the final game of the series.

With three victories and two defeats, the Bees are in fine fettle for the Daffness Boys.

THE DOUGHTY DODGERS COME TO TOWN!

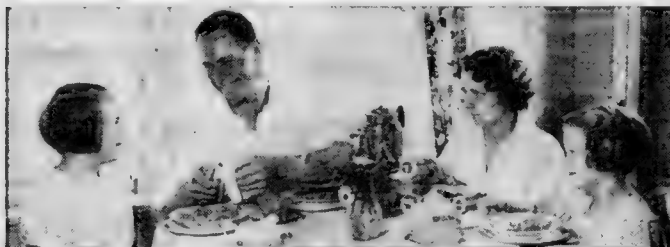

Veteran Fred Frankhouse figures he may see some action here in Boston this week. He likes the scrappy new spirit the Dodgers are showing this season. Here's something else he likes: As Fred puts it, "You can count me in as one of the boys who are strong for a big dish of Wheaties in the morning. I say you can't beat those Wheaties flakes for good, home-style, satisfying flavor."

Maybe the fans out near that 368-foot left field wall will see Buddy Hassett in this peaceful mood—and maybe not. The .304 hitter who roams the left garden is an aggressive young ballplayer. Does he like his Wheaties? He does!

Leo Durocher knows all the tricks of the short-stop trade. Says Leo, "You can't trade me off my favorite breakfast. I'm sticking with Wheaties. Those keen whole wheat flakes do right by my appetite."

Undaunted by the warlike spirit of this Brooklyn invasion, Jim Turner and his family gather for a quiet breakfast. The League's top-ranking pitcher of 1937 reports that he eats Wheaties just about every morning. "In all ways," he says, "Wheaties are tops in the Turner home."

Bees Fans Start For National League Field To Inspect Scrappy New Flatbush Gang

Hold everything, Billy Weir! The law says it's open season on Dodgers but only inside National League Field, and only with bats and pitched balls. Do some hunting yourself all through New England, and you won't find many who like Wheaties better than young Bill Weir does.

Sometimes you catch two great pitchers warming up together. Feast your eyes on Dan MacFayden and Lou Fette, a pair of aces, getting all set to do a little feasting with that time-honored Wheaties style breakfast. There's a very simple reason. They happen to like Wheaties.

Here's the breakfast for you—Wheaties, milk and fruit—that tasty, nourishing "Breakfast of Champions."

Wheaties and advertising claims for them are accepted by the Council on Foods of the American Medical Association.

Home Saturday

New England turf racing opens next Saturday. "Win with Wilson" will once more be the slogan of race followers as it has been during the five years that the Boston Evening American expert has been handicapping racing in this part of the country. Believing that the only true way to handicap the thoroughbreds is to follow them the year around, Wilson left New England last November, took in the fall meetings at Maryland and Charles Town, Va., and then spent the winter at Hialeah and Tropical, Florida.

Dave Egan Marries Mary Fitzgerald

SPRINGFIELD, April 25 (AP)—

Miss Mary Egan Fitzgerald, daughter of Mrs. Ellen Fitzgerald of North Agawam, and David Egan, publicity director at the Rockingham Park and Agawam Park racetracks and Valley Arena in Holyoke, were married this morning in St. Thomas' Church, West Springfield, by Rev. James W. Dolan.

The bride, a graduate of Agawam high and Bay Path schools, has been secretary to the director of publicity at Agawam Park for the past three years. The groom, a graduate of Harvard College and Harvard Law School, is a former Boston Evening American sports writer.

Gill and Zeimetz B. C. Track Aces

Boston College cindersmen are making the most of their practice sessions at the Heights preparatory to the outdoor season which opens with the Harvard relay games, Saturday.

Dick Gill and Frankie Zeimetz are the main hope.

Ole Diz's Right; Critics' Faces Red

NEW YORK, April 25 (INS)—One week ago, when Mr. D. Dean passed from St. Louis to Chicago for the sum of $185,000 and three window dressers, the rest of the league sniggered a little derisively and allowed that there must have been a catch in it somewhere; that P. K. Wrigley of Chicago probably had been stuck like a piece of his own gum on the flat of a half-sole.

After yesterday, though, they'll be sending out a correction on that. It wasn't gum; it must have been slippery elm and nobody was stuck. In fact, Branch Rickey and the Cardinals are still slapping, and they won't be able to pull up and right themselves until they forget what Mr. Dean did to them yesterday during that 5-0 four-hitter he pitched against them in his first Chicago airing.

Ole-Fog-in-the-Face was just a blur to the batters all day, as he deflated the Gas Housers, considerably de-gassed. He just frivoleed along, fanning only one, but walking only two.

Four hits all told, two of them doubles by Terry Moore. Not a hit off Ole Drool after the sixth inning. It was Dean's second straight of the week, and of the season, and not unrepresentative of the Dean who won 30 and 25 respectively in 1932 and 1933, a fact that must come as no great comfort to the rest of the National League.

Colie Clinches Regatta Win For Tech

Technology's dinghy skippers won the Intercollegiate Yacht Racing championship and with it the Henry Mores trophy as they defeated nine other colleges in a regatta on the Charles.

Tech totalled 141 points, with Brown's tars in second place with 110. Other points totals were: Williams 109, Dartmouth 105, Princeton 101, Harvard 93 and Yale 57.

Skippers Runyon Colie and Herman Hanson were the Tech tiller handlers who piloted the fleet to victory, with Colie clinching matters in one of the final races of the day.

Set back for a fast start, he re-crossed the line, cut under the lee of the leaders and sailed to the front of the parade in the final 109 yards.

Galento Proud Dad; Wins Many Bets

ORANGE, N. J., April 25 (AP)—Tony Galento was a proud father today. It was a boy, and "Two-Ton" Tony won a lot of bets thereby. "Gis is out—it's gonna to be a boy—just like me too," the rough-and-tumble heavyweight fighter has been proclaiming. And he always had a five-spot to back his prognostication.

"That kid ain't gonna be no fighter or no dope like me," said Tony.

England Names Davis Cup Team

LONDON, April 25 (AP)—Great Britain today chose C. M. Jones, Frank Wilde, D. W. Butler and R. A. Shays to play Rumania in the first round of the Davis Tennis Cup competition at Harrogate, May 7 to 10.

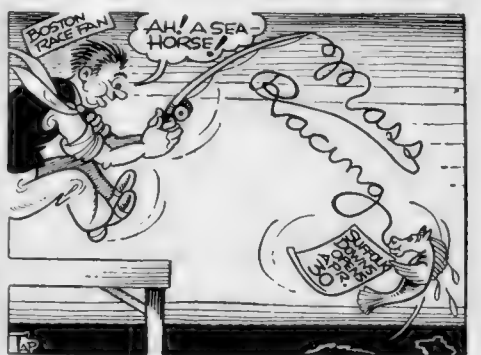

Butler, at 28, is the oldest player on the team. Jones is 26 and Wilde 27. None of them was ranked among the first four in 1932 rankings. Butler was fifth, Jones seventh, Wilde eighth and Shays 10th.

5000 Seek Jobs At Suffolk Downs Infection Place, Casey on Back

By JACK CONWAY.

THE REAL color and romance of a race track is not always in the vicinity of a palatial box car that has brought War Admiral, Seabiscuit or the courageous little Top Row to the siding alongside of the stables.

I found it at Suffolk Downs watching a long line of men filling out application blanks for work at the track. There were all types and classes of men in that line of humanity that sought the privilege of earning from $5 to $7 a day.

"I am a married man with a wife and four children," said one applicant. "I graduated from Tech during the depression of 1933 and have never been able to get a start in business. I worked at Suffolk Downs last season, and if I can get a job this year it will help to keep me off the welfare."

Mr. Boston

There were men who had worked in most of the building trades in the long, winding line. Most of them did not care what they did at the track as long as it was a job that paid at least $5 a day.

Spotted here and there in the line were the seasoned race track followers who have arrived from Maryland and Florida. They are disciples of the sun and of the thoroughbred, and are happy provided they are at a race track. If they do not get employment at the track, they will do a little touting on their own.

Five thousand persons are seeking the 500 available jobs at Suffolk Downs.

"I have a working ticket on a 10 to 1 shot," said one applicant.

The work in the mutual department calls for a certain degree of skill, and these berths are usually given to experienced men. There are jobs as ushers, guards, attendants in the parking areas and on the various gates that do not call for much experience.

Tommy Waters in Box Office

THE BOX office men under Tommy Waters are recruited from the Boston theaters and amusement houses. A ticket seller must be fast, and cannot make mistakes, and so these jobs go to men who have been selling tickets and working in box offices most of their lives. Waters is in charge of tickets at the Garden, and says he got into condition for the race track business handling capacity crowds at the ice carnivals and hockey games at the Garden during the past season.

The Sonja Henie crowds are tops in Tommy's book. He says he could have sold out the Garden for Sonja if the place had been twice as large.

"Boston people didn't wake up to what a great attraction Sonja is until the week of the show," said Tommy as he sorted out race track tickets, "and by that time the out-of-town folks had bought the Garden sold."

In addition to the 500 persons employed by Suffolk Downs, there are 1000 berths with the various racing stables. These jobs are held by trainers and attendants on virtually an all-year-round basis. These men journey from track to track in the search of new purses and glory. The average racing stable is only a few jumps ahead of the sheriff.

This proves that even men close to racing cannot keep the game. The Vanderbilts, the Whitneys and other millionaire owners of racing stables consider themselves fortunate if their losses for a season do not amount to more than $100,000.

I got a peek at an income tax return of one big stable, and the loss for the year was $250,000.

It costs $2000 a year to pay the overhead in connection with even a $12500 selling plate, and so it is easy to figure how the overhead runs up if a racing stable experiences difficulties.

Infection and Its Death Hold

STEVE CASEY, giant Irish heavyweight wrestler who is recognized as world's champion by the American Wrestling Association, has proved he can beat any opponent in the ring, but he was almost pinned by death by an infection in his right knee. An emergency operation performed by Dr. Martin H. Spellman at St. Elizabeth's Hospital saved Casey from possible death.

Casey, like most other powerful athletes, wasn't concerned when he suffered a slight injury to his right knee during a wrestling bout in a Western ring. He failed to notice a break in his skin through which a germ later found its way. Followed an infected knee.

It was from a similar kind of infection that Stanley Staniak died. Paul Bowser was fortunate in being able to sign Louis Thesz to expose Yvon Robert at the Garden on Friday night. Thesz is even a more colorful wrestler than Casey, and is the man from whom Steve won the title. Robert's championship was vacated when he refused to clash with Thesz under instructions from the American Wrestling Association.

Faced with a cancellation of his bout Friday night on account of Casey's injury, Robert readily agreed to risk a meeting with the brilliant Thesz.

Owners of Massachusetts race tracks believe the action of the Rhode Island legislature in barring consideration of pari-mutuel betting at the fall election will have a favorable reaction in this state.

They feel that Massachusetts voters won't bar racing here, and in this way enable Rhode Island to step in and get additional racing days which would be supported with Massachusetts money. . . New Hampshire shows no desire to give up the juicy revenue it has been getting from racing. . .

Casey Goes to Hospital; Thesz to Meet Robert

By RINGSIDE

Louis Thesz, sensational young Hungarian heavyweight wrestler from St. Louis, is hurrying to Boston today to take Steve Casey's place against Yvon Robert in a finish mat bout at the Garden on Friday night.

Thesz was substituted for Casey when the latter was stricken by an infected knee.

Casey is today at St. Elizabeth's Hospital where he is recovering from an emergency

Boston May See Armstrong Fight

By JACK CONWAY

Henry Armstrong will defend the world welterweight championship in Boston next Fall if he is successful in defeating Barney Ross in their 15-round battle in New York on May 26. "Rip" Valenti, Goodwin Club matchmaker, revealed today.

Valenti has just returned from Hot Springs, Ark., where he spent two weeks with Eddie Mead, manager of Armstrong.

"Armstrong's opponent will be selected from George Martin, Ralph Zaneli and Sammy Fuller," Valenti said.

Armstrong, greatest of boxing sensations, is world featherweight champion, and is given an even chance of beating Ross by many ring experts.

"Armstrong will conquer any man in the world up to the better middleweight," Mickey Walker told me when in Boston.

Armstrong is under contract to box Lou Ambers, world lightweight champion, in New York a month following his meeting with Ross.

In the event Armstrong wins over Ross, it is likely that the proposed Ambers' tussle will be postponed, and that a second Armstrong-Ross bout will be held in Chicago in September.

Armstrong would then defend his welterweight title in Boston.

The Irishman injured his knee during a recent bout in the West, but did not consider the injury serious. He came to Boston to get ready for Robert.

His right knee then began to give him trouble. The pain was so intense Casey consulted Dr. Spellman on Sunday afternoon, and an emergency operation was decided upon.

The wrestler was removed from Dr. Spellman's Back Bay office to St. Elizabeth's Hospital where he went under the knife.

It was found that Casey was suffering from a type of infection that has proved fatal to Stanley Staniak and several other prominent athletes.

Paul Bowser immediately got the wires burning, and signed Thesz as Robert's opponent.

Robert's title was vacated by the American Wrestling Association several months ago when he refused to accept Thesz as a challenger. Under present conditions, Yvon agreed to clash with the Hungarian.

Wladyslaw Talun, Polish giant who is managed by Stanislaus Zbyszko, will appear on Friday night's card with Charley Stark as an opponent.

Play Must Go On 'Deacon' Hurts After 'Dad' Dies

J. W. "Joe" Knowles, who suffered a fatal heart attack at the Belmont Country Club, was a foster-father of Danny "Deacon" MacFayden, Bees pitcher, and one of the most prominent four-ball players in these parts.

For years, "Joe" and Bill Shriner teamed in four ball competition, and although neither was a low handicap player, they were hard to beat in four ball play.

During the weeks that the Bees were training at Bradenton, Fla., "Joe" was in camp and played most of his golf with MacFayden, Al Lopez, Lou Fette, Roy Johnson and Ira Hutchinson.

It was a shock to the Bees to learn, just before they took on the Phillies, that "Joe" had passed away.

MacFayden was in the clubhouse dressing for his pre-game practice when he received a telephone call to go at once to Belmont.

He was told that his uncle had had a heart attack and was in a very serious condition.

Before Danny arrived at the hospital, "Joe" died but, being an old trouper, Danny returned to National League Field and pitched a shut out game, limiting the Phillies to three hits.

Jockey Set to Try Comeback Here

Smart Kids

'They're Off' At Downs Saturday

By BILL SMITH

A gripping story of the comeback trail of a jockey will be enacted at Suffolk Downs during the 57-day meet which begins Saturday.

Bill Duffy, injured during the last Rockingham meeting, will attempt to grace the winners circle before the same fans that witnessed his accident.

Duffy was aboard Momentary, which stumbled and fell, trying to avoid Sun Abbot with Schein riding, and Bill received serious internal injuries and had to retire for the year.

Bill's rocky road back will be smoothed somewhat by local fans who will be rooting for the game little jockey to make good once more.

Seabiscuit Arrives for Big Race

NEW YORK, April 25 (INS) — Traveling with something of the panoply and opulence of royalty, Seabiscuit, the great handicapper champion of the turf, arrived in New York today after a coast-to-coast 2000-mile trip that will have its climax at Belmont Park on Memorial Day with the $100,000 match race against War Admiral, unbeaten in 10 straight races.

The Biscuit will be assigned stall No. 47 in a brand new barn at Belmont, built during the winter to replace a section of the property that was burned down last year.

War Admiral, the coast champion's arch-rival, has been quarantined some distance away and has been working out at the track daily.

Although Seabiscuit is known as an excellent "traveler," it was considered unlikely that he would be given a workout on the track until Wednesday.

Salem, will be among the riding contingent at the East Boston Oval.

Kenney was the prodigy of Dave Wilson, ace handicapper of the Boston Evening American and Sunday Advertiser.

Some of the more popular riders to show at Suffolk include Lynch, Bierman, E. Smith, Earl Porter and R. Ecorod.

Denemark stable, trained by New England's own Willie Booth, is due to arrive the latter part of the meeting . . . Elmer Trueman is also coming with a division of the Milledale stable that he campaigned in Maryland . . . Horsemen are vastly pleased with the resurfaced race strip at the Downs . . . T. J. Stagehand Seen Horse to Beat

Sande Entry Rated Tops By Experts

(This is the first of a series of daily stories introducing the leading three-year-olds of the American turf which will vie for honors in the forthcoming Kentucky Derby, May 7th.)

STAGEHAND, h.c., by Sickle Stagecraft, by Fair Play.

Owned by Maxwell Howard, Dayton, Ohio, paper manufacturer and trained by Earl "Handy Guy" Sande, STAGEHAND is termed the horse to beat for major honors in the coming Kentucky Derby classic . . . Winner of but $360 in purse money as a two-year-old, this son of Sickle went on to around the turf world this winter at Santa Anita, winning the $50,000 Derby and $100,000 Handicap within two weeks at the California track.

Purchased as a juvenile by Sande, for his employer, Mr. Howard from Joseph E. Widener, STAGEHAND becomes the bargain purchase of the year . . . His total winnings for the current season now totals the right handy sum of $136,700 and the end is nowhere in sight with the Kentucky Derby, Preakness and Massachusetts Handicap all within this colt's grasp . . . Stagehand's last five starts have been winning ones and before that the son of Sickle ran second to Giant Minstrel. That's the record of his six trips postward this season to date.

He is now at Churchill Downs being prepped for the Blue Grass race under the watchful eye of Sande, once the peer of American jockeys and establishing for himself a ranking place among the trainers . . . Jackie Westrope will ride Stagehand in the Derby. (The second story in this series will appear tomorrow in the Boston Evening American.)

Amor Brujo In N. E. Bow

Amor Brujo, the $30,000 "Love Witch," will make his New England racing debut at the forthcoming Suffolk Downs meeting, opening Saturday for an extended session of 57 days.

Amor Brujo, the South American invader, heads the fashionable stable of the Kosinsky brothers, California patrons of the thoroughbred sport, who will arrive at the East Boston plant Wednesday from Bay Meadows.

A. E. Silver is the trainer of the Kosinsky string, and F. Macchek is the contract rider.

Several weeks before the running of the Santa Anita $100,000 added Handicap this winter, Amor Brujo was sold to the Kosinsky brothers for a reported sum of $30,000.

Ormsby Returns As Eagle Coach

Pepper to Help Dobie in Fall With Ends

By WALTER KILEY

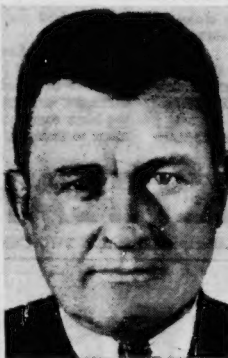

William "Pepperbox" Ormsby of Newton will be returning to the coaching fold when another Boston College football season rolls around.

Ormsby, who over the past week-end was formally inducted into the Boston College Varsity Club, after having previously been made an official member of the alumni family, will come back to a task which he held down most auspiciously for nine successive years at the Heights.

One of the few coaches financially independent but whose interest in the game of football increases with the years, Ormsby, during his seven years of assisting Joe McKenney, one under Dany McNamara and Harry Downes and his ninth and last under Dobie, turned out many of the country's greatest wingmen. Included were Flavio Tosi, Charlie Murphy, Johnny Dixon and a host of others.

Ormsby came to the Heights under McKenney, after having produced remarkable results with the ends on the Brown "Iron Men" teams of 1926 and 27.

He played end and halfback for four years at Brown, graduating in 1917. His teams twice defeated Yale, and twice tied, won once and lost once in four years of play against Harvard.

BILL ORMSBY

M'Carron, Martin Box at Woburn

The Woburn Catholic Men's Club will stage a sports night this evening at St. Charles High School, starting at eight o'clock.

There will be 30 rounds of boxing. Feature performers will be Jimmy M'Carron, former Olympic lightweight, and Georgie Martin, welterweight, who twice has defeated Ralph Zanelli.

Eddie Bradley, Somerville representative, will portray "The Kid's Last Fight" in his inimitable style.

Phillies May Get Hegan

During his stay in town with his Phillies, Manager Jimmy Wilson learned that Jim Hegan, Lynn English high school catcher, who was signed to a Cleveland contract late last July, was a free agent.

It's alleged that the Indians gave Hegan $2500 for signing last season. But, due to the fact the boy had another year to go before finishing high school, Cleveland agreed not to turn in the contract.

Both of the local clubs had tried to sign Hegan but without any success, and naturally they were anxious to learn the inside facts of the case.

An investigation revealed that although Hegan had signed a Cleveland contract, he was still a free agent because his contract had not been promulgated.

On Saturday night, Wilson went down to Lynn and was in a huddle with the Lynn boy's father, and it may come to pass that Hegan will wind up in a Philly uniform and that Cleveland has blown its $2500 bonus.

DiMaggio 'Manager' Faces Landis' Probe

Judge K. M. Landis, high commissioner of baseball, is conducting a secret investigation of the charge that Joe Gould, fight manager, and persons close to race tracks are attempting to manage Joe DiMaggio, New York Yankee slugger.

Landis has always been bitterly opposed to outsiders meddling with ball players, and DiMaggio will be called on the carpet and asked to explain his actions in the event it is known he acts under orders from interests removed from baseball.

The report that horse track people were among those advising DiMaggio has aroused Landis' ire.

The Judge compelled the late Charles Stoneman and John McGraw to dispose of their interests in the Havana track under threat of being expelled from baseball.

Charles F. Adams was later obliged to sever control of the Bees when he bought into Suffolk Downs. The reins of the Bees were turned over to Bob Quinn.

Landis will get all details in connection with the charge Joe Gould and a group of persons close to boxing and the race track were behind DiMaggio's claim for $40,000.

Boxing managers have contended Babe Ruth and other baseball stars would have done much better financially if they were managed by Jack Kearns or some other high pressure boxing figure.

Joe DiMaggio tipped his mit and gave credence to rumors when he slipped off the train which brought him East at Newark and met Joe Gould.

The scribes were waiting for him at the Penn Station in New York but he passed up the boys who'd made him for his alleged manager, or "front man."

Although he is probably the greatest of the present day ball players, DiMaggio is by no means untouchable.

If Judge Landis becomes convinced that Joe is in any way tied up with race track men, the Yankee star will be asked to explain his connections and, if there are any grounds for drastic steps being taken, the high commissioner will not hesitate for one moment to make an example of DiMaggio.

Hemsley Suspended

For 'Celebrating' Bob Feller's Win

CLEVELAND, April 25 (AP)—An indefinite suspension for Rollie Hemsley, playboy catcher, was threatened today by C. C. Slapnicka, Cleveland Indians' general manager.

Manager Oscar Vitt suspended Hemsley at Detroit last night as the Cleveland club left for Chicago, and fined the catcher $250 for breaking training.

"We can stand a little bit, but there is an end to our patience," Slapnicka declared in Detroit. He ordered Hemsley to confer with him in Cleveland tomorrow and said the threatened indefinite suspension would "depend on the outcome of the talk."

"Vitt's sending me home for something I didn't do," said Hemsley as the train left without him. "I'm here in plenty of time to catch the train. If that's the way he feels about it, why doesn't he give me my release?"

"We don't care whether the man's name is Hemsley or Smith, we don't want him if he doesn't hold up his end," asserted Slapnicka. "In other words, he sold the team down the river."

President Alva Bradley in Cleveland said he would back up Slapnicka, and sighed that Hemsley is "just a Peck's Bad Boy."

Hemsley caught for Bob Feller at Detroit Sunday while the Indians spanked the Tigers for the third straight time 9 to 4. Vitt saw Hemsley celebrating in the Indians' hotel at Detroit last night.

The incorrigible playboy of the league immediately was given his second suspension of the season. He was sent home for a week during the spring training for the same reason.

Joe DiMaggio Signs $25,000 Contract

NEW YORK, April 25 (AP)—Joe DiMaggio signed his $25,000 contract with the New York Yankees this morning, with the baseball season just one week old, but his pay will not begin until he has satisfied Manager Joe McCarthy he is in condition to play.

The slugging outfielder and major league home run king stands to lose at least $1300 for being A. W. O. L. for eight days, including today, and may be "docked" a total of $2000 before he re-enters the lineup.

At his own suggestion DiMaggio did not accompany the Yankees to Philadelphia today but arranged, instead, to work out at the Yankee Stadium.

"There's just one thing I want to make clear," said Colonel Jacob Ruppert, Yankee owner, after he and his star player affixed their signatures to the contract. "There's no bonus. That's right, isn't it, Joe?"

"That's right," said DiMaggio, "and another thing: This is the first contract I've signed for 1938."

It Must Be DiMaggio That's what Norman Pilote, B. C. shortstop must have thought as he stopped this scorching drive, for it almost carried him into the next county. The Eagles cross bats with Rhode Island State at the Heights today. They defeated the Staters last week. He is one of the few on the B. C. team who has played every game this spring. B. C. has two other games this week, with Tufts Wednesday and Bates Friday. The Eagles have hopes of winning all three.
